The Sea Islands.
Long Staple Cotton.
The "Bloody Marsh."
Georgia's Beautiful Coast.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga., Dec. 16.

THIS is one of the beautiful sea islands lying close to Georgia's coast, near Brunswick, forming an inland waterway along the Atlantic.

Here grew originally the "Sea Island cotton" with long staple, known over the world. It grows now in far away Arizona and across the ocean in the Nile valley. You have it in your rubber tires.

ON THIS island, Oglethorpe fought the battle of "Bloody Marsh" that settled for all time the Spanish claims to these lands.

Spaniards landed from their ships, which had just defeated the British, and marched inland. Oglethorpe met them and defeated them.

Local tradition says the Spanish troops came from their boats without shoes. Oglethorpe spread branches of prickly pear all over the Bloody Marsh. Anyhow, he won.

HIS fortification, Fort Oglethorpe, still stands in ruins at the water's edge in the little hamlet of Frederica. Its walls of oyster shell masonry several feet thick defy time and stand with the old rusty cannon on top. The walls were built in 1736.

CLOSE by, is the church built by John Wesley, who came from England to carry out his religious ideas and, although he didn't know it at the time, to establish the Methodist Church, with one possible exception the most powerful in the United States.

AT THE end of two long rows of live oaks, about three hundred years old, you see ruins of the residence of Col. King, where Aaron Burr went into retirement after killing Alexander Hamilton.

Slave quarters and the old house, in ruins, are also of oyster shell masonry.

NATIVES tell you they know the live oaks are three hundred years old because "it takes them 100 years to grow, their prime lasts 100 years, then it takes them 100 years to die."

Oyster shells are still abundant. Men don't go to the market for oysters here. They go to the edge of the water with a hammer and knock off as many oysters as they want.

THIS old island comes to life in a modern way, thanks to Detroit and Howard Coffin. He made his millions in Hudson and Essex automobiles and instead of taking his money to Europe as some do, he decided to go on building. He joined Carl Fisher in building up Montauk Point, the far end of Long Island, with golf links, polo fields, airplane landing fields and a fine big hotel.

He has just finished building another fine hotel, more golf links, airplane fields, polo fields, etc., on this island.

Georgia is much obliged to him for this proof that he appreciates as fine a coast resort as there is in the world.

THE good Lord gives to human beings the beautiful earth.

It takes individuals with energy to make it available for the big crowd, as Flagler developed Florida, Carl Fisher developed Miami, the Prince of Monaco developed Monte Carlo, and as Mr. Coffin is developing this part of the wonderful coast of Georgia.

HERE it is just warm enough and just cool enough in winter, never uncomfortably cold, never oppressively hot. And there are all kinds of things to be killed, if you happen to be a "sportsman."

TWENTY MILES down the coast on the mainland, quickly reached in a speed boat, Mr. Coffin has a game preserve of 60,000 acres. If you start at three in the morning and wait until sunrise you will get half a dozen wild turkeys. There are plenty of deer, wild cats, opossums, coons, quail, pheasants and other game.

Mr. Coffin doesn't shoot. He is too busy thinking about something else to build.

IN THE ocean off the islands fish are abundant, including swordfish that fight hard and must be harpooned from a "pulpit" built out over the bow of the boat.

AT LOW tide this beach, hard enough for automobile racing, presents a perfect airplane landing field three hundred feet wide, five miles long; and the quiet island waters were made to receive hydroplanes.

IN A short time commercial airplanes will bring passengers here from New York in three hours, and on to Palm Beach and Miami in two or three hours more. If you doubt that, wait and see.

Meanwhile, you might buy yourself some good water front, at present inaccessible for lack of railroads and highways. Airplanes require neither.

WHAT electric transportation did for suburbs within thirty miles of big cities, flying machines will do for beautiful places within one or two thousand miles of great population centers.

On a Friday or Saturday, not ten years away, the father and

LEO ROTHENBERG

Mayor Kline today appointed Leo Rothenberg to fill the magistrate's vacancy made when John J. Verona was fired.

LIVINGSTON FIGHTS OUSTER

KLINE FILLS VERONA'S BENCH

Mayor Kline today appointed Leo Rothenberg police magistrate for the Hill district to succeed John J. Verona, whom the Mayor fired three months ago.

On a motion of Councilman R. J. Alderdice, Council this afternoon held over for one week consideration of the appointment. Council must confirm the appointment before it becomes absolute.

Alderdice said he knew of no opposition to Rothenberg, but believed the importance of the position necessitated careful consideration before confirmation.

Verona was "fired" by the Mayor after he had charged that the police department was dotted with grafters and that administration leaders "know all about it." His charges brought on the recent grand jury investigation, but the jury, in its final report, said Verona had failed to substantiate the accusations.

AGAINST VERONA

Rothenberg, a resident of the Fourteenth Ward, is closely connected with the anti-Verona faction in the Third Ward. He served as police magistrate during part of the term of former Mayor William A. Magee. During the Kline administration he has served as an investigator in the law department.

KLINE BUILDS FENCES

The appointment is regarded as an effort to strengthen the Kline following in the Third Ward in the event the Mayor seeks re-election next year. At present the ward is dominated by Verona, who is both alderman and ward chairman. Recently a start was made toward the formation of a Kline faction there by the organization of the Sentinel Club, with Joseph Engelsberg and others as its leading spirits.

"Good luck to him," said Verona, when informed of Rothenberg's appointment.

SNOW AND COLD TO HIT CITY TONIGHT

Snow flurries late today, accompanied tonight by a 25-degree drop in temperature will end the present five-day mild spell, C. A. Belt, assistant meteorologist of the weather bureau, predicted today.

The center of the storm that is to break the unseasonable warmth, was over Northern Indiana today. No severe cold is in prospect, it was said. Weather Observer W. S. Brotzman today was reported recovering from a severe cold at his home, 1641 Suburban avenue, Beechview.

"The cold will move in tonight," said Belt. "The thermometer will drop to between 30 and 35 degrees tonight to be followed by a further decline tomorrow."

KING IMPROVES AFTER RAY THERAPY

By HARRY R. FLORY,
International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—King George's condition continued improved today. An official bulletin timed 10:45 a. m. said:

"The King had a fair night with some natural sleep towards morning. The slight improvement in His Majesty's condition yesterday continues."

It was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, Sir Hugh Rigby, and Lord Dawson, of Penn.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon it was officially stated at the palace that the slight improvement in the King's condition previously noted continues.

The ray therapy treatment, which brought such good results over Sunday, will be resumed tonight.

PALACE OPTIMISTIC

Physicians interested in ray therapy are watching the results of this treatment with keen interest and an eminent radiologist, in expressing his view of this morning's bulletin, said that it was the best yet issued. "It is more than likely that this new condition is due to the ultra violet ray treatment because the tendency of the rays is to produce natural sleep," he added.

Buckingham Palace circles regarded the morning bulletin as the most favorable issued since the beginning of the present phase of the King's illness. It was the first time since the King's condition became serious that he passed 24 hours without sedatives.

There was growing hope in all circles that the King is now distinctly on the upgrade, although it is admitted that progress is still slight and that many risks are still to be faced.

POPE GRATIFIED

ROME, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Once the official portion of the secret consistory was concluded today, Pope Pius conversed with all the Cardinals present and said that he was glad to inform them that latest reports were that King George of England had improved. He expressed the hope that this would lead to complete recovery.

PEACE MOVE ON AS BOLIVIANS ATTACK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—As the casualty lists in the Paraguayan-Bolivian "war without declaration" mounted today, delegates to the Pan-American conference, in session here, prepared to make every possible effort to avert actual declaration of war and to straighten out the dispute over Gran Chaco border lines.

A special meeting of the conference conciliation committee was called today to consider what steps may be taken to check further warfare.

At the same time plans were being formulated in Paris to have the League of Nations take its most drastic action to prevent further hostilities.

BOLIVIA REJECTS PARLEY

Paraguay formally accepted the Pan-American conference offer to attempt arbitration late today. No word was received from Bolivia, although that nation rejected a conciliation meeting proposal made by the Permanent Commission of Arbitration at Montevideo earlier in the

Late Bolivian Loans To Be Investigated

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Investigation of recent loans by the United States to Bolivia were to be made by Wall street today, following charges made by the Paraguayan legation in Washington that the money was to be used to finance a war with that country.

Denial of the charges already has been made here in financial circles. The loan was for $23,000,000 and was made, representatives of the banking syndicate said, on good faith after a careful investigation of the purposes for which it was intended.

17 Schools Close Here as Cold Curb

Sixteen schools in Allegheny County were closed today to check prevalence of coughs and colds. Fifteen of these schools are in Mifflin township. The sixteenth was St. Thomas' Parochial School, Braddock. Supt. Clifford Edmundson announced the closing in Mifflin township, which embraces Homestead Park, Lincoln Place, Homeville, New England and Curry.

HUGE DRY FUND DIES IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Senate agreed today to the conference report on the Treasury Department appropriation bill eliminating the Bruce amendment increasing the funds for dry law enforcement from $13,500,000 to more than $270,000,000.

The report was accepted by a vote of 38 to 35 after a sharp row between wets and drys. The vote was almost on straight party lines, with Democrats opposing the conference action. Many drys urged acceptance of the amendment, which was put into the bill by a wet, Senator Bruce, of Maryland.

Indication that removal of the $270,000,000 provision might not have been accomplished as simply as it was put into the measure was evident in the announcement of Senator Harris (D.), of Georgia, that he opposed the elimination of the increase, and intended to carry his fight to the Senate.

Led by Seanotr Harris, a group of Democrats urged rejection of the conference report and insisted upon an appropriation approaching $300,000,000 to "give the administration an opportunity to show what it could do."

The original appropriation for prohibition was $13,500,000, and Bruce added $250,000,000. This sum, with the coast guard appropriation, made up the $300,000,000.

"LET'S END ALIBIS"

Arguing that prohibition at present was destroying the respect for law in America, Senator Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, joined other Democrats in urging inclusion of the large amount for enforcement.

A. P. Moore Recovers, Resumes His Duties

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—United States Ambassador Alexander P. Moore has completely recovered from his recent illness. He conferred yesterday for more than one hour with President Leguia. King's Condition Delays Honor List

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—It was learned authoritatively late today that on account of the illness of King George the issue of the New Year's honors list would be postponed. It is believed that probably the names of recipients of the honors will be published with the list of birthday honors. The King's birthday is June 3.

Churches Praise Carrie Nation Successor

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The little mother who informally initiated a liquor cleanup in Kansas City by wrecking a "speakeasy" with her hatchet recently, still holds the limelight. She made two public appearances in churches yesterday and was lauded by one minister for "doing in five minutes what the police and prohibition authorities had failed to do in years." The raid was the topic of many sermons.

A large bouquet was given the feminine raider. Mrs. Maud Wilson, at one church, as the congregation applauded.

GRAND DUCHESS MARIE

The Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, first cousin of the late Czar Nicholas II, has arrived in the United States for her first visit.

GRAND DUCHESS IN U. S. FOR SURVEY

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, first cousin of the late Czar Nicholas and one of the dominant members of the royal family when the Romanoff court was the most splendid in the world, is in the United States for a two months' visit. She is the guest of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst.

The Grand Duchess said today that she plans to devote much of her time in America to the study of child welfare work and the textile industry. She is proprietor of an embroidery factory in Paris and is active in promoting the welfare of the children of Russian exiles.

Mrs. Hearst and the Grand Duchess became close friends during the former's many visits in Paris. Her Imperial Highness was met at the pier on her arrival in New York yesterday by Mrs. Hearst, and last evening she was guest at a brilliant dinner and reception at the Hearst home in Riverside drive in honor of Grand Duke Alexander.

The Grand Duchess and Mrs. Hearst were to leave today for California to spend the Christmas and New Year holidays on the Hearst ranch at San Simeon.

CASE TO GO TO CIVIL SERVICE

Murray G. Livingston, chief inspector of the city's division of weights and measures, ousted by Mayor Charles H. Kline, today said he would demand a "showdown."

Livingston said he was drafting a letter demanding that Mayor Kline specifically point out wherein he had failed in his duties.

"For the good of the service" was the Mayor's only explanation Saturday for the dismissal of Livingston and he would not amplify that statement today, pending receipt of Livingston's letter.

Livingston, a city employe for 28 years, said he was in the dark as to the real reason for his dismissal, but his friends say "politics." His friends saw in his summary discharge a second attack by the Mayor on civil service protection of city workers.

BLAMES POLITICS

Livingston, before the Civil Service Commission, testified he had dismissed Nolan on order of Mayor Kline. The real cause for Nolan's dismissal, Livingston said, was that Nolan had refused to use his influence to swing the vote of a woman relative to the Mayor's side in the battle for control of the Second Ward Republican committee.

Following that hearing the Civil Service Commission restored Nolan to his former position with full pay for time lost. Livingston's testimony had much to do with the success of Nolan's fight for reinstatement and angered the Mayor, Livingston's friends say.

10 DAYS FOR ACTION

James G. Smith, secretary of the Civil Service Commission, explained that Livingston has five days from last Saturday to demand from the Mayor more specific explanation of how he had failed in his duties.

If the Mayor and Livingston do not come to some agreement, Smith said, at the end of the five days the Mayor will notify the commission that the latter has been discharged.

Then Livingston will have five more days in which to file an appeal to the commission, which will hold a hearing. If he does not appeal the matter is closed.

Some difference of opinion as to the exact status of Livingston under the Civil Service regulations seems to exist. The Mayor, after stating that he had nothing further to say in the matter, explained that Livingston is in the non-competitive class, that the commission's function is to rule only on the validity of the reason given for discharging him and that Livingston, if not satisfied, can take the entire case into the courts.

COUNCIL NOT INVOLVED

Councilmen say they have no hand in the proceedings. Livingston's last reappointment was made by the Mayor without passing through the office of any bureau head, but the incumbent is amenable to civil service rules.

Livingston was showered today with friends' promises of aid. All morning he was busy answering personal calls and telephone messages.

Around the Mayor's office there was an air of expectancy as clerks and politicians awaited the arrival of Mayor Kline.

Bandits Shoot Man After Robbing Him

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Driving from his home in Glen Lyon to this city yesterday, Samuel Weltman, a merchant, was held up and robbed of $400 in cash and a diamond ring by two young men.

After robbing Weltman, one of the bandits remarked, "Well, I guess I'll leave my trademark on you." Then holding his revolver about 12 inches away, he fired a bullet through Weltman's left arm.

Narcotic Farm Bill Approved in Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The House Bill to establish two federal narcotic farms for the confinement and treatment of persons addicted to the use of narcotics was favorably reported today to the Senate by its judiciary committees. No sites for the institutions were proposed by the bill.

WOMAN, 82, CONCEALS SEX 60 YEARS AT MAN'S WORK

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—"Charles Warner," 82, who had worked for 60 years in this city as a painter and paperhanger, is a woman, according to officials at the Utica state hospital to which she was taken on Saturday. The woman told officials that no one knew or ever would know her real name, but that she would like to be called "Jane."

She said that she assumed the male role because she wanted work to support her widowed mother and 60 years ago a woman's wage was insufficient to support two persons. She wanted a man's work, with a man's pay, so she donned men's clothing and got the job. Her employers here said that she displayed a man's efficiency and vigor.

"Charles Warner" had been a county charge for two years, but refused to live at the county home and had been placed in a boarding home. She disappeared last week. Friday night she was found wandering about the city and was sent to the Utica Hospital.

WHALEN ACCEPTS NEW YORK POLICE COMMISSIONERSHIP

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Grover A. Whalen, New York's official greeter of celebrities, accepted the position of police commissioner today, to succeed Joseph A. Warren, resigned.

In announcing Whalen's acceptance Mayor Walker said the new police commissioner would be sworn in at noon tomorrow. Warren, who resigned after widespread criticism of his department in connection with investigation of the killing of Arnold Rothstein, gambler and alleged financier of an international narcotic ring, had made his resignation effective December 31 or before.

Whalen is general manager of the John Wanamaker New York store, and at first had declined to accept the appointment without the approval of his superiors in the Wanamaker organization. At early conferences these superiors had expressed extreme reluctance to release Whalen.

ORA SLATER

Ora Slater, Ohio's detective credited with solution of the murder two years ago of Don Mellett, Canton's crusading editor, will arrive in Canton today to seek out "all the facts" in the Fearn case.

SISTER PLEADS JAWORSKI BAIL BE CUT AGAIN

Unable to raise the $5,000 bail, half of the amount originally asked for her brother, Tom Jaworski, Mrs. Catherine Logan, sister of the three Jaworski brothers now held in the county jail, today made an appeal to District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner for further reduction in bail.

Mrs. Logan is a sister of Paul Jaworski, doomed bandit leader. Sam Jaworski was convicted of helping Paul escape from the county jail. Tom Jaworski is the youngest of the three brothers. He is held for perjury growing out of the trial of Sam.

HOME MORTGAGED

Mrs. Logan arrived here this morning from Detroit, the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pallas, who, she said, have mortgaged their home and pledged all their possessions for the defence of the three sons. The brothers are known both by the family name of Pallas and by Jaworski.

"Our funds are running low," Mrs. Logan said, "and we cannot raise the $5,000 necessary for Tom's release. The charge against him is not so serious and we are hopeful that Mr. Gardner will lower the bail so we can have him home by Christmas."

FEARN CASE LOVE NOTES UNCOVERED

By SHELDON REED,
Staff Correspondent.

CANTON, O., Dec. 17.—Ora Slater, Ohio's super sleuth, credited with having solved the murder of Don Mellett, crusading Canton editor, will arrive here today to search for "all the facts" in the slaying of Vernard E. Fearn, Waco coal operator.

Prosecutor Henry W. Harter, Jr., revealed today he had gained possession of two letters supposed to have been written to Mrs. Heidman's two sisters by Heidman and his wife.

One letter by Mrs. Heidman, he said, tells of meeting Fearn and going to a roadhouse with him, and of plans for obtaining a divorce.

Another letters, by the husband, charged his wife with unfaithfulness, Harter said.

Detectives today began investigating a report that Mrs. Heidman was in the interurban car station at Akron late on the afternoon of December 6, the day Fearn was killed. It would have been impossible for her to reach the Fearn home at the time the murder was committed, if this report is true, detectives say.

Deputies took Heidman to Lorain today to check his story of his movements on the day of the crime.

Slater's particular mission, according to Prosecuting Attorney Harter, who retained the sleuth, will be to learn if there was a conspiracy between Mrs. Margaret Heidman, who it has been established, shot Fearn down to end an intimacy between them, and her husband, W. O. Heidman, who was bringing her here to justice last Thursday night when she shot and killed herself.

SLATER TO GRILL

Heidman, the young furnace salesman, who is in jail as a coroner's witness in default of $25,000 bond, will underго another grilling when Slater arrives.

"Mrs. Heidman was a morose, introverted, introspective person," Harter said. "We have nothing to show that her husband practiced any physical cruelty upon her. But his attitude and his words to her were extremely nasty and we want to know whether there was any persuasion on his part when his wife set out to kill Fearn. She might easily have been influenced to such a deed, being the sort of girl she was."

ATTENTIONS NOT FORCED

Harter doubted that Mrs. Heidman of her own volition would suddenly desire to kill the man who had been her partner in infidelity, both before and after her marriage. No real evidence has been produced, he said, to show that Fearn had forced his attentions upon her.

SUNDAY MOVIES IN CHURCH HERE!

MOVIE ADVERTISEMENT ON EAST END CHURCH

Sunday movies were here last night! Persons passing the First Methodist Protestant Church, Howe street and Aiken avenue, were surprised during last week by a sign about 18x15 inches, advertising "Motion Pictures Sunday Night." The pictures were exhibited by I. E. Keener, president of the board of stewards, and were used to illustrate the Sabbath evening sermonette of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. J. W. Hawley. Mr. Keener says attendance at the services has doubled since the movies were introduced.

TREATY, SHIPS FIGHT STIRS SENATE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The twin battle over American adherence to the Kellogg anti-war treaty, while increasing the strength of the American Navy, was expected to enter its major stage in the Senate this week, with proponents of both measures predicting victory.

The fight for ratification of the treaty began anew today before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, where the old "irreconcilable" group is seeking adoption of a resolution explaining America's terms of adherence. The resolution, opposed by President Coolidge and administration leaders, would guarantee America's non-intervention in any foreign war, reassert the sacredness of the Monroe Doctrine and absolve her of any entangling alliance in any other treaty.

NAVY BACKERS WATCHFUL

Sponsors of the "Big Navy" bill, which could authorize construction of 15 new fast cruisers and an airplane carrier, were keeping an eye on the Senate's activity, as their bill ranks first on the legislative program following enactment of the pending Hawes anti-convict labor bill. The Navy forces expect debate to start on their measure by the middle of the week and hope for its enactment before the Christmas recess.

The Navy measure still faces opposition, not only from the pacifist group, but from those senators who oppose heavy expenditures on the Navy. The latter group has demanded that the administration build a huge air force and provide a heavy increase in submarines as an alternative for the increase in fighting ships.

MAY BLOCK VOTE

Their opposition to the cruiser program may block a vote until the new year at least, if they fail to force modification of the measure.

TIME and distance have been annihilated, an excellent thing for the human race and real estate values.

First Major Crash On New Air Route

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 17.—(INS.)—The first serious mishap of the new Atlanta-Miami air mail service was recorded today.

Flying from Atlanta to Jacksonville, Fla., he encountered a heavy fog. A dislocated hip and slight lacerations were the flyer's injuries.

German Flag Row Nearly Embroils U. S. Envoy

The Monarchist section of the general student council objected to having the German Republican flag carried during a torchlight procession in the ambassador's honor, on the grounds that it was a "partisan emblem." Heidelberg officials smoothed the matter over.

UNCOMMERCIAL SUNDAY FILMS O.K.-PASTOR

Uncommercialized Sunday moving pictures today won the indorsement of Dr. J. W. Hawley, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Dr. Hawley refused to go on record against Pennsylvania's blue laws, but said he saw nothing wrong in playing baseball on Sunday and exhibiting pictures if the commercial angle were removed.

A moving picture shown in Dr. Hawley's church last night—"The Littlest Shepherd"—illustrated Dr. Hawley's sermon, "A Square Deal."

"With the picture," Dr. Hawley said, "attendance at the evening services has been doubled and we will continue to show pictures on Sundays. Of course, these pictures will all point morals, such as last night's, which was that 'honesty is the best policy.'"

Pastor Hawley praised Charles Heinroth's free Sunday organ recitals at Carnegie Hall and the Pittsburgh Symphony Society concerts on Sundays.

RANGOON, Burma, Dec. 17.—(A.P.)—Col. day. This commission operates under the Gondra Treaty.

150 KILLED IN BATTLE

Close to 150 soldiers were killed, the majority of them Paraguayans, when Bolivian troops captured Fort Boqueron, Fort Rojasolva and Fort General Genes in the disputed territory, according to dispatches today.

Both nations are massing troops and equipment along the disputed borders.

Fort Rojasolva surrendered only after the Bolivians had sent an airplane over the fortifications, dropping bombs and inflicting loss of life.

WAR FEVER SPREADS

Patriotism has reached fever height in both Bolivia and Paraguary.

Enlistments are being rushed and the recruits hurried into training camps.

Paraguary has issued a call for the mobilization of all its fit men between the ages of 18 and 29.

In the meantime the French headquarters of the League of Nations declared a special session of the League would be summoned immediately should Paraguay and Bolivia declare open war.

Paraguay claims that Bolivia has already gone to war.

BATTLE OVER SWAMPLAND

Gran Chaco, the territory claimed by the two republics, contains more than 100,000 square miles containing large areas of swampland and jungle. It stretches eastward from the foothills of the Andes Mountains between the Pilcomayo and Paraguay Rivers and a great deal of it is unexplored. Except for roving bands of Indians it is uninhabited.

U. of Mich. Professor Wins History Prize

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—(A.P.)—Ulrich B. Phillips, professor of American history at the University of Michigan, was announced yesterday as the winner of a prize of $2,500 offered by Little, Brown & Co., Boston publishers, for the best unpublished work on American history. Uninvited Reunion Guests Bomb Home

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 17.—(A.P.)—Windows in the homes of Paul Maranco and Nuncio Bianco, on Oak street, Pittston, were broken last night and the occupants badly frightened by the explosion of two sticks of dynamite in front of the Maranco residence. The bombing is believed to have been the work of persons who failed to receive invitations to a family reunion at the Maranco home.

Bolivian Army Outnumbers Foe More Than 2-1

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Should Bolivia and Paraguay, who now appear to be tottering on the brink of warfare, actually come to grips, Bolivia would have the advantage of an army more than twice as strong as Paraguay's, it was estimated here today.

Bolivia's standing army consists of 7,500 men. There are 230,000 reservists upon which the nation can also draw.

Paraguay's standing army has a personnel of only 3,000. Its reservists total 100,000.

CONFESSES IN COURTROOM TO KILLING SON

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 17.—Arraigned in court today on a charge of killing his son, Hiram, 22, who was engaged to marry Emma Lincoln, a widow, of White House, near here, Hiram Epley, 72, broke down and confessed the murder, which since the crime several months ago he blamed on "two strange men."

The aged father assigned no reason for the filicide, but controversy had arisen over his son's approaching marriage to the widow.

The killing occurred on the highway at White House. Hiram had just gone home after spending the evening at the Lincoln residence when his father entered. Fearing trouble, the widow and her mother said they rushed to the Epley home for Hiram, and the three were returning when they met the young man's father, who shot his son twice after an exchange of hot words.

It is the concensus of opinion that a death sentence will not be imposed.

DRIVER HELD, ACCUSED OF SPEEDING

Four persons were injured when an automobile, pursued, police say, while speeding through the Liberty tubes, crashed into an automobile and a motor coach at West Liberty and Pioneer avenues last night.

Miss Anna Leo, 18; Andrew Kennedy, 42, and James Rothrock, 18, all of Bridgeville, and the fleeing driver, Prince Brinkley, of Dennison, O., were taken to the South Side Hospital. Miss Leo and Rothrock suffered severe lacerations and bruises and were able to go to their homes. Brinkley's leg is believed fractured and Kennedy has concussion of the brain.

Police Lieut. Robert Buel said Brinkley passed him in the tubes at high speed. Buel chased the car to Pioneer avenue, where it crashed into an automobile driven by Mrs. Elizabeth Rhea, of 615 Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, and then into a bus of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, operated by Peter Dunbar, 39, of 3345 Fleetwood street.

Passengers in Mrs. Rhea's machine and in the bus were shaken up and suffered from shock. Lieut. Buel lodged a reckless driving charge against Brinkley and set his bail at $1,000.

$5 ENOUGH FOR BABY'S OUTFIT, EXPERTS SAY

Five dollars will provide the wardrobe of a newly born baby and it is possible for a family with two or three children to live on $24 a week, Northwestern University experts on home economics have decided.

A large staff at the Chicago university participated in the research work which included working out a budget for a baby.

This $5 budget even provides for several changes of clothes and is supposed to keep the younester clean and comfortable for at least six months.

The model outfit on exhibition at Northwestern includes a pink flannel coat, a pink knitted cap, warm wool bootees, four outing flannel dresses, one party frock of nainsook, two cotton and wool shirts, two pair of wool socks and a dozen diapers. A plaid blanket, two bottles for water and six nipples may also be squeezed out of the five spot.

There's still enough left to buy a crib. That is, if the crib is a 50-cent clothes basket or a bureau drawer fitted with an excelsior pad covered with a sheet.

The baby's diet, during the first two years, costs little more than 25 cents a day, these authorities have decided. It's easily possible, they say, to clothe, feed and house a family with two or three children on $24 a week.

SANTA KILLED IN STORM TAKING CHILDREN TOYS

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Santa Claus who annually visited Wagoner, an isolated range town 30 miles from here, will not bring gifts to the children this year. He was killed when his gift-laden automobile plunged into a mountain ravine during a blinding snowstorm yesterday.

The gift-bearer died among his wrecked toys, but with his last breath, he murmured to the rescue party:

"Boys, for God's sake see that those kiddies are happy."

Tom Goodwin, wealthy bachelor cattleman, loaded his automobile with Christmas toys and candy Saturday, and with Miss Pearl Johnson, a Wagoner school teacher, and Reg Thomas, a cowboy friend, who had aided in purchasing the Christmas gifts, started for Wagoner.

SOUTHERN COAL SHIPPERS STIRRED BY RATE PROTEST

LAKE CARGO RE-HEARING LOOMS

A committee of southern coal operators will meet tomorrow in Washington to discuss the steps they shall take to meet the move of the Pittsburgh district coal operators to reopen the lake cargo coal rates case. James D. Francis of Huntington, W. Va., is chairman of the southern committee.

On Saturday the Pittsburgh district operators filed a protest with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington against the compromise rate adjustment recently arranged by railroad trunk line executives, to become effective the first of the year.

NOT ALARMED

According to Chairman Francis, the southern operators are not unduly alarmed by the request of northern group that the commission set aside the compromise differential of 35 cents a ton agreed to by northern and southern railroad officials after the railroad officials had failed in their efforts to bring about a compromise between the coal interests.

The new petition and protest is expected to bring about an early reopening of the lake cargo case. A. S. McElvany, secretary of the lake rates committee for the northern operators, said the latest move was made in the hope of restoring the 45-cent differential on northern and southern lake cargo shipments.

2 Maryland Girls Found Dead in Road

BALTIMORE, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—The bodies of two 16-year-old girls, both with their skulls crushed in, were discovered in a field along the Annapolis boulevard today by police. They were identified as Marie Stolba and Thelma Black, of Brooklyn, a suburban development of Baltimore. The two bodies were found in a thicket, carefully laid side by side with their coats under their heads. Discovery of a quantity of broken glass on the road led police to believe they had been struck by an automobile, but an autopsy has been ordered.

WILKINS HELD BACK BY BAD WEATHER

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York American and Universal Service, Inc.)

DECEPTION ISLAND, (Antarctica), Dec. 17.—(Via Whaler Hektoria and Kup, San Francisco wireless station.)—Snow, sleet, rain and fog! For the purposes of this Antarctic aerial expedition, conditions here are no joke.

Tonight is calm, but the "ceiling" is at about 600 feet, and the plateau of Graham's Land, over which we must cross, is 2,000 feet high and studded with mountains reaching as high as 6,000 feet.

Lieut. Ben Eielson, Pilot Joe Crosson and Porter have shaved their heads, hoping that their monk-like appearance will help to compensate for their invectives against the weather.

With their bald pates and bushy beards—they have not shaved for weeks—they remind one of the ancient prophets. And since we have been so long delayed, we fancy we heard the voices of our friends shouting, as did the boys at the prophet in the Bible story: "Go up, thou bald heads!"

If the clouds break, we may get away tomorrow.

AVIATION WORLD PAYS TRIBUTE TO WRIGHTS

KITTY HAWK, N. C., Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Orville Wright, who with his brother, Wilbur, taught the world to fly, returned today to the scenes of his first aerial experiments to receive the plaudits of the aviation world.

He was Orville Wright. In 1903, the two pioneers experimented here with mechanical wings, and made the first sustained flights in a heavier-than-air craft.

And today representatives of practically every nation on earth came here to pay tribute to the brothers.

Atop Kill Devil Hill rests the cornerstone of the government memorial dedicated to the memory of the Wrights.

A seven-ton slab of Carolina gray granite was placed on the spot from which the first epochal takeoff was made on December 17, 1903. The two memorials are to be dedicated today.

Heading the pilgrimage to "The Shrine of the Air" today were Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Miss Amelia Earhart and others prominent in official and aviation circles.

WANT PLANE RETURNED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—"Bring Orville Wright's airplane back to America."

With this declaration, two senatorial members of the board of regents of Smithsonian Institution moved today, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of Orville Wright's history-making flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., to end the long controversy over the beginning of man-controlled aviation. Senators Reed Smoot (R.), of Utah, and Claude Swanson (D.), of Virginia, announced they would help to place Wright's machine in Smithsonian Institution, even though the famous inventor recently shipped it to England.

Now, it appears, it will be brought back to its native land.

PITTSBURGH IN TRIBUTE

Pittsburgh today joins the peoples of the entire civilized world in the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first dynamic flight in an airplane carrying an operator. Man's centuries-old dream of flying like a bird came to a startling materialization on December 17, 1903, when two humble bicycle mechanics, Wilbur and Orville Wright, of Dayton, O., made a flight from the sand hills at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in a plane driven by a 12-25 horsepower internal combustion engine.

Another Pittsburgher sharing in American aviation pioneering honors is Calbreth Perry Rogers. He made the first flight across the American continent, a distance of 2,50 miles, in September, 1911. He needed so many replacements to his machine that he arrived with virtually a different plane from the one in which he started. The plane is now in Carnegie Museum.

Light Airplane Trip Prize Given

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Hindenburg Cup, with a prize of 10,000 marks for a long distance flight in a light airplane, has been awarded by the German Aviation League to Baron Friedrich Von Koenig-Warthausen. He was the owner and pilot of the Kleom-Daimler plane with 25 horsepower Mercedes Benz motor, which he flew from Berlin to Teheran by way of Moscow and Baku. The flight of about 2,800 miles began August 8 and was concluded August 31.

$150,000 Rum Found On Crewless Ship

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—A mystery boat without a crew and loaded with 200 drums and kegs of rye whisky and alcohol was towed into port today by a police patrol launch. The craft was deserted when found. The liquor was valued at $150,000.

5 MISSING, 9 DIE AS FIRES RAZE CLUB, HOTEL

HAZARD, Ky., Dec. 17.—(A.P.)—Search for the five persons missing in the Combs Hotel fire of Saturday night, from which six bodies have been recovered, was renewed today with a detachment of Kentucky National Guard on duty. The property loss was estimated at $260,000.

The known dead are J. Edward Pirtle, 30; his wife, Mrs. Mayme Watson Pirtle, 28; Miss Emily A. Sizemore, 18, chambermaid.

Guests unaccounted for are H. F. Rainey, of Lancaster; Scott Stone, Roy Baker, Miss A. D. Melvin and R. S. Walden.

Two bodies were taken from the ruins today and identified as those of Finley Taylor, a railroader, and W. A. Wooters, of the Wooters-Maytag Co. Firemen dug up a partly burned coat containing a hunting license issued to E. W. Phipps, and efforts were made to establish whether he was missing.

While Mayor J. W. Craft said he knew of no foundation for reports that incendiarism was responsible for the fire, the authorities were understood to be considering ordering a grand jury investigation. Alex Hargis, president of the Hargis Bank and Trust Company, said he would offer $1,000 reward for arrest and conviction of an incendiary. His company is trustee for the D. Y. Combs estate, owners of the hotel building.

CLUB BURNS, THREE DIE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(A.P.)—Three men lost their lives, three others were critically burned and nearly a dozen others, including one woman, were less seriously injured yesterday when fire swept the rooms of the McKinley Square Social Club in the Bronx.

William Dahl, 40, proprietor of the club, made three trips back into the burning clubrooms to assist patrons to the fire escape, but was trapped when he made a fourth trip for his wallet. His body was found before the bar in the front room, a wallet tightly clutched in one hand.

Defense is expected to be "medical insanity." He said he murdered the girl because she wanted him to kiss her.

"Follow me," Assistant Prohibition Administrator Joseph A. Frayne, told four motorists who stopped him on the William Penn Highway near New Alexandria, and asked the way to Greensburg, early yesterday. The men, Frank D'Uva, 28, of Oakville, Conn.; Sam Debone, 52, of Greensburg; Tony Daversa, 37, and Dominick Palomerina, 30, both of Johnstown, were transferred to the county jail when agents refused to release them on bail on Sunday. Today they were held for court.

'BILLY' SUNDAY HERE; SCORES CITY GRAFT

"Show no mercy to rum runners and racketeers. If you do they will soon be sitting in the White House on a keg of beer."

The Rev. William A. (Billy) Sunday, here today for a brief visit, brought his fist down with characteristic vigor when told of two liquor and racket probes by grand juries here in the battle against law violators.

He noted little difference for the better or the worse in the vice situation since he was here for his famous evangelization campaign 14 years ago.

"The vice situation here in Pittsburgh is not different from that in any large city," declared Sunday at the William Penn Hotel soon after arriving from East Liverpool, O., where he had closed an evangelistic campaign. He spoke at noon at a meeting in the First Presbyterian Church.

"Vice is a carbuncle on the body of society," the militant evangelist continued, "a big carbuncle in a big city and a small carbuncle in a small town.

SCORES POLICE

"Some police in all cities, in Pittsburgh as elsewhere, are in league with hijackers, rum runners and racketeers. The only way to treat these violators is to fight them with their own weapons. Show them no mercy. Things are bad, but there is one cure—the Gospel of Jesus Christ. It will make honorable, useful citizens out of the worst crooks and criminals.

"Since the war this country has been steeped in the worst form of materialism," declared Sunday. "It has crept into business, schools, colleges and even the church. Some preachers are so subservient to this crass materialism that they will preach only such doctrines as are pleasing to big business."

"Feels like home to come to Pittsburgh, doesn't it, ma?" queried Sunday, turning to Mrs. Sunday. "We came here on our honeymoon 40 years ago. I used to be leadoff man with the Pittsburgh ball club that played in Recreation Park twoscore years ago," he recalled.

SAMUEL P. LANGLEY

ASK $5,000,000 FOR P. O. WORK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—President Coolidge recommended to Congress today that it make $5,000,000 available to the Postoffice Department to care for its 1929 fiscal year deficit, as estimated by Director Lord, of the budget bureau. The deficit outlook was attributed by the budget director largely to the 100 per cent increase of air mail since the postage was reduced to 5 cents an ounce August 1, along with the establishment of new air mail routes.

Director Lord said that under the reduced postage "mail offered for transmission by air increased 100 per cent in August over July, and the poundage is still increasing at a substantial rate."

CIVIC FORCES MOBILIZE TO AID LAW

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The eve of Christmas 1928 finds civic leaders in pricipal American cities, inculding New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Kansas City, wrestling with the increasingly acute problem of how to cope with booze running, racketeering, police graft and organized crime.

New York has its mysterious Arnold Rothstein case which has cost its police commissioner his job; Chicago has kicked out high police officials who seemingly could not stop a sensational series of gangster killings; Philadelphia has overthrown a grafting police force; Detroit is in the throes of a federal inquiry of an alleged $300,000,000 border rum smuggling ring; Pittsburgh's police are under fire for alleged graft; Cincinnati, home of George Remus, former "king of the bootleggers," is fighting the new menace of racketeering, and the "open town" situation in Kansas City has been enlivened by the appearance of a "modern Carrie Nation"—Mrs. Maude Wilson, who, hatchet in hand, swooped down on a saloon she claims sold liquor to her 15-year-old daughter.

CRIMES INCREASE

Violent crimes, such as women slaying their husbands and sweethearts, college youths essaying hold-ups forays "for a thrill" and dry agents shooting citizens fleeing with contraband rum and gin, are on the increase, reports to International News Service today indicate.

"Christmas booze" is pouring into New York and other ports on the Atlantic seabord from the "rum fleet" and into Detroit from across the Canadian border. Motor trucks are swinging along country roads nightly with booze destined for one interior city to another. "Beer flats" have sprung up in large numbers in Chicago. And reports from many other cities, including St. Louis, Atlanta, Los Angeles, San Francisco, New Orleans, Minneapolis, Fort Worth and Toledo, show that the "speakeasies" are flourishing.

It is predicted by Detroit prohibition officials that between 75 and 100 border patrolmen will be indicted or discharged from service as a result of the federal investigation. The situation is typical of conditions that prevail in other American cities.

RADIO AUDIENCE IN U.S. PUT AT 40,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Federal Radio Commission yesterday outlined to Congress in its annual report a year of widespread and intensive activity in the field of radio, ranging from the complete re-allocation of all broadcast stations to surveys showing that approximately 12,000,000 receiving sets are serving 40,000,000 persons in the United States.

The commission, the report said, proceeding under the Davis amendment to the Radio Act, after months of study and many hearings, set up a framework for the new allocations which the majority of the commission members believe provides excellent radio reception on 80 per cent of the 90 channels available for use in the United States.

The commission, through a nation-wide survey, arrived at the conclusion that the total number of actual receiving sets in service in the country would approach 12,000,000. Of that number 7,500,000 were sets with loud-speaker volume and the others were one-tube and crystal sets with ear-phone attachments. A close parallel in the ownership of sets with the number of automobiles and the payment of income taxes was declared by the commission to exist throughout the country.

NECK BROKEN, MAN JAILED

Detectives of the city homicide squad were notified, but so far they have been unable to determine how the man met his injuries. Police have advanced the theory that he may be the victim of a hit-run motorist.

POPE LAUDS U. S. ASTRONOMER

ROME, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Pope Pius XI yesterday praised the work of the American Jesuits (name of Georgetown Observatory) in the astronomical field at yesterday's inauguration of the new year of the pontifical academy of sciences in the Pius IV pavilion of the Vatican gardens. The pope found the last published volume of Father Hagen especially noteworthy, completing as it did the work of the vatican observatory in collaboration with similar institutions throughout the world.

Then turning to Capt. Umberto Nobile, the Pope praised what sentiments of "piety of faith inspired him in saying that the scientific results obtained on the polar flight of the Italia were chiefly good and important." He said he admired the explorer as "the conquerer of the pole." After addressing the assemblage the Pope approached Nobile and took him by the hand.

PAN OF BOILING BEANS PICKS UP RADIO MUSIC

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—There may be sermons in stones and books in the running brooks, but it was left for a Santa Barbara woman to reveal that there is a Schubert melody in a pan of boiling vegetable.

As the hoarse voice of a radio announcer burst through the kitchen steam of a quiet home here and the strains of "Ave Maria" filtered from a box of beans simmering on the electric range, the beans were quickly have been excused had she exhibited a touch of nervousness, because there wasn't a radio set anywhere in the house.

But she didn't. She approached the range in a scientific spirit and stirred the beans vigorously. In answer, a whole chorus burst into a blasting song, followed by a closing pianistic melody.

Radio experts admitted they were baffled by the phenomenon, but pointed out that radio music has been heard in hot air shafts connected with electric furnaces. The bottom of the pan might have acted as a diaphragm and reproduced a radio program picked up inductively by the electric power line.

Pilot Hurt in Ga. Air Mail Smash Up

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—C. A. Stone, piloting the air mail from Atlanta to Jacksonville, Fla., crashed on a heavily wooded ridge south of here yesterday. He was injured seriously. His plane was wrecked.

Fog and poor visibility were responsible for the mishap.

Laundryman Beaten To Death by Robbers

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Nathan Cohen, proprietor of a small laundry, was robbed and beaten to death when alone in his shop Saturday night. Cohen came here a few weeks ago from New York.

Biggest Shipment Of Holiday Fowl On Way Here

GALLIPOLIS, O., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The steamer Senator Condit left here yesterday for Pittsburgh, loaded with thousands of turkeys, chickens, ducks and geese for Christmas markets in Pittsburgh. The shipment was said by divermen to be the biggest ever sent up the Ohio river.

Two 'Mystery' Fires Near U. of M. Campus

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 17.—(INS.)—The Arcade Theater building on North University avenue and a two-story business building occupied by the Parrot restaurant on State street were ruins today following two "mystery" fires that started here that are estimated at $150,000. Both buildings face the University of Michigan campus.

More than 5,000 people, mostly university students, watched the fires.

Weather Conditions.

The trough of low pressure which extended from New Mexico into Canada Saturday morning increased in intensity in its eastward advance, and now has two centers—Fort Wayne, 29.55, and White River, 29.58. Precipitation has occurred with this low over practically the entire country except along the Pacific coast and portions of the Atlantic coast and southwestern states.

High pressure, central over Eastern Washington—Spokane 30.74—covers the western half of the country.

Temperatures are unseasonably high east of the Mississippi, while below freezing weather prevails west of this river.

Rainfall in excess of one inch was reported from a number of stations in the Central Mississippi and lower Ohio valleys, and in Texas.

River Conditions.

The rivers are again falling. Stage at Pittsburgh this morning was 14.2. Dam No. 2, 5.8, and Dam No. 6, 12.5. The dams are down. Rain will occur over the watersheds this afternoon and tonight. The rivers will change but little.

Peasants Overwhelm Bratianu in Rumania

BUCHAREST, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Saturday's senatorial elections in Rumania proved another triumph for the national peasants party and its leader, Premier Juliu Maniu, tabulations showed today. The peasants gained 110 seats, which number included all but three of the electoral mandates, these three going to the Hungarian minorities. The opposition or Liberal party, headed by the former premier, M. Bratianu, failed to gain a single senatorial seat.

X-ray Shows Boy's Heart on Right Side of Body

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Literally, the heart of 2-year-old Paul Boehme is in the right place. An x-ray examination by Dr. Patrick Machler and Dr. F. L. Hussey showed that the child's heart is in the right side of the body and his liver is also located there.

Otherwise Paul is a healthy, normal child.

Chicago School Graft To Bring Dismissals

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Dismissal of all civil service employes found involved in sale or attempted sale of school building contracts will be sought by H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the Chicago Board of Education. Announcement to this effect was made while school board officials and the state's attorney's office were continuing their investigation of charges that graft had influenced granting of contracts for school buildings.

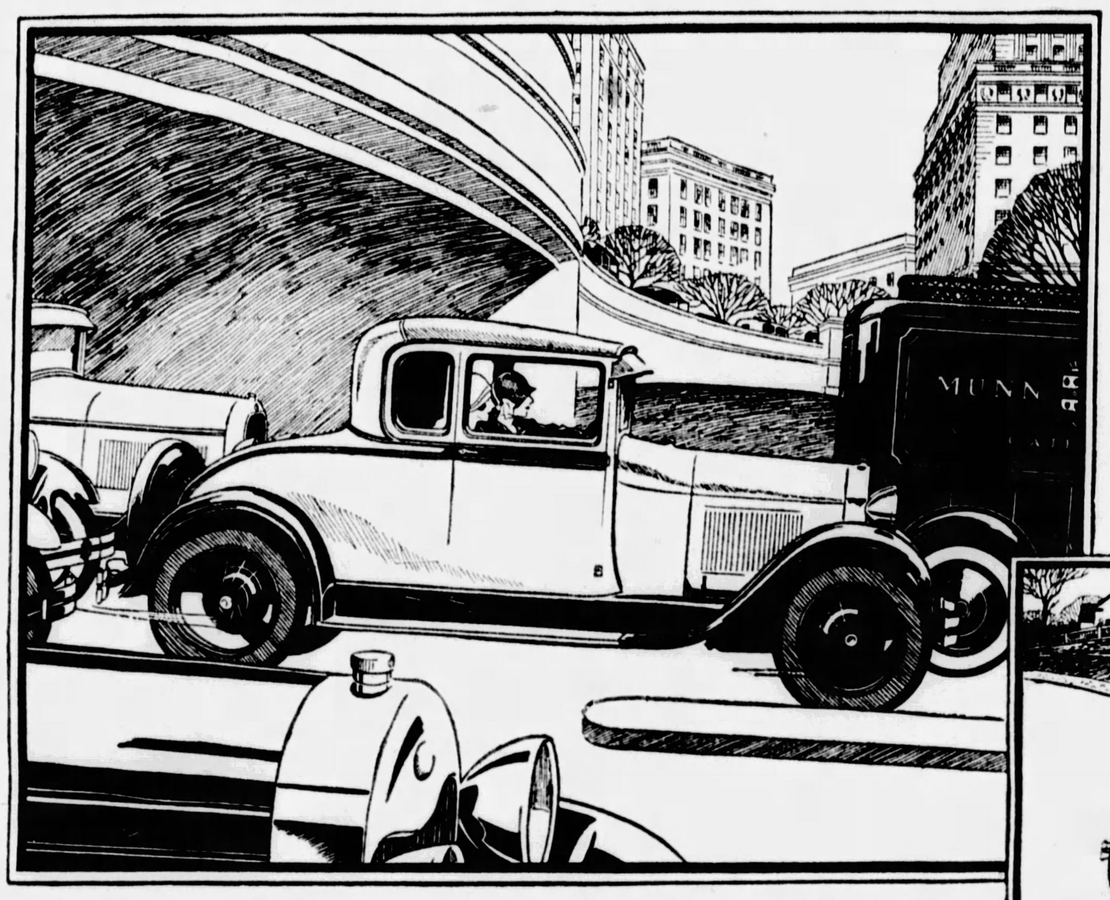
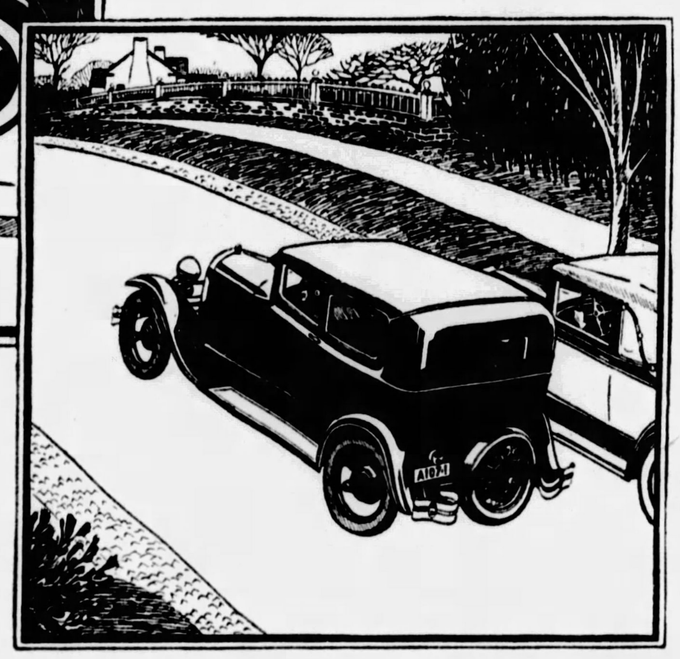
Simplicity of design means better PERFORMANCE



The new Ford Coupe is distinguished by the trim sturdiness of its lines and beautiful colors. An unusually good choice for the woman driver because it is so reliable, safe and easy to control. The Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield is an important safety feature.

Everywhere you go, you note the smooth speed, power and acceleration of the new Ford—its alert, capable performance in traffic, on hills and on the open road. It has set a new standard for a low-priced car.



"MAKE it better—make it simpler" has always been the keynote of Ford engineering and manufacturing methods. This policy has been carried forward to its highest, fullest expression in the new Ford.

You see evidence of a carefully planned simplicity of design the instant you lift the hood. Its value becomes increasingly apparent when you drive the new Ford.

Smoothness, quick acceleration, remarkable hill-climbing ability, speed of 55 to 65 miles an hour—all these are brought to you in the new Ford without sacrificing economy and reliability. The whole tendency is to give you the most performance with the least machinery.

This applies not only to the engine but to every detail of the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems. The engine itself is but one part of a motor car.

An example of Ford simplicity of design

Take the engine lubrication system. It is a combination of pump, splash and gravity feed and is unusually reliable and effective. There is but one movable part — the pump.

From valve chamber down, the entire flow of oil is as simple in principle as water running downhill. Ford design and Ford manufacturing methods have made it trouble-free. The only thing for you to do is to see that the oil level never falls below low (L).

Only one high-tension cable in ignition system

This same trouble-saving simplicity of design is shown also in the Ford ignition system, which reflects much that is new in mechanical design.

A particularly unique feature is the elimination of high-tension cables from the distributor to the spark-plugs, these connections being made by means of thin bronze springs. There is but one high-tension cable and this connects the coil on the dash with the distributor.

The distributor head itself is water-proof and has been specially designed to prevent short circuits from rain, snow, etc.

The housing is then electrically welded to the steering column, thus making a one-piece steel unit.

Many other vital parts of the new Ford are also electrically welded, permitting the use of steel forgings instead of stampings or castings and giving greater simplicity and strength than if several parts were riveted or bolted together.

More steel forgings, in fact, are used in the new Ford than in almost any other car, regardless of price.

All six brakes are silent and fully enclosed

Equally important to good performance is the design of the brakes on the new Ford. The six-brake system is unusually safe, reliable and effective because both the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against water, sand, dirt and grease.

For many years this has been recognized as the ideal combination. It is now brought to you on the new Ford because a simple, easy way has been found to accommodate two sets of full internal brakes in a two-in-one brake drum of great strength on the rear wheels.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Such simplicity of design is not easy to achieve. Yet it is the first essential of good performance in a low-priced car.

It is made possible only through Ford manufacturing and production methods and the experience gained in making more than fifteen million automobiles.

Back of the new Ford is a larger purpose than the making or selling of a motor car. It is to bring the benefits of modern, economical transportation to all the people and to help every motorist get the greatest possible use from his car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense. That is the reason for the value that has been put into the new Ford. That is the reason for its outstanding performance.

TWO HEALING SERVICES AT GLORY BARN

Two services were held yesterday in the Glory Barn, Carson street, by Evangelist John W. Sproul. Healing services followed both the afternoon and evening sermons and many persons professed their acceptance of Christianity. Musical hours were held preceding each service.

Many persons remained at the barn for both services. At 7 o'clock a special service for young folk was held. Mrs. Cecil Thomas gave the second of a series of Bible addresses.

Evangelist Sproul spoke on "Feeding the Five Thousand" at the evening service. He said that Christ was willing and able to supply the needs of the multitude, even though, to the physical eye, the means with which to do it did not seem present. Services will be held each evening this week, excepting tonight, with special healing services on Tuesday and Friday.

LABOR COLLEGE HEAD NAMED

Plans for carrying on the work of the Union Labor College of Pittsburgh were discussed yesterday at the annual election of officers. Ludwig Weisbart, of Bakery Workers' Local No. 12, was elected chairman at the meeting held in the McGeagh Building. Herman Gordon, of the Bakery Workers' Local No. 41, was named recording secretary.

It was announced at the meeting that the Rev. G. S. Lackland, of Meadville, Pa., who founded the Denver Union Labor College, would speak tonight in the North Continuation School, Duquesne way. He was head of the Denver college for five years.

MRS. MAYBRICK

Old files divulge this 40-year-old portrait of Mrs. Florence Maybrick, American subject, who prepares today to use the $750,000 she has inherited under the will of Walter Thomas Burrell, Briton who lived in France, to prove her innocence in the poisoning of her husband, James, in England in 1889. She is in Florida. Liverpool public opinion saved her from the gallows in 1889.

'DEATH SUBMARINE SUNK TO TEST RESCUE DEVICE

ABOARD U. S. S. CHEWINK, off Block Island, R. I., Dec. 17.—(By Radio to the Associated Press.)—The Submarine S-4, death trap of 40 men off Provincetown just a year ago, was sunk again today, this time deliberately.

The Navy, which had fitted her reconditioned hull with new lifting hooks or "head eyes" designed to test this and other devices designed to save future seamen from death, had accordingly the useless S-4 was sent to the bottom of Great Salt Pond, a land locked bay off Block Island.

Standing by the submerged ex-S-4 was sunk were a steel guard control boat, the submarine tender Chewink and the submarine rescue ship Falcon. From the latter the lifting tests are being directed by Lieut. Com. Palmer H. Dubose.

Water was let into the main ballast tanks of the S-4 by means of lines pulled from the Falcon, and by 9 o'clock this morning the submarine rested on the bottom, 57 feet down.

The task of lifting her was started immediately. A corps of divers working under Chief Gunner Clarence Tibbals, a member of the diving crew which worked on the S-4 at Provincetown last winter, was aboard the Falcon to carry out the underwater part of the experiment.

Sour Stomach Sign of Carelessness

POLITE society frowns on those whose stomachs "grumble." For careful people heed this warning that the contents of the stomach is sour and fermenting. Those who don't, may some day develop gastritis—or even ulcers.

Nine times out of ten indigestion and allied stomach disorders are due to excess stomach acid, which impedes normal digestion and forms sour gases that cause intense pain. To restore good digestion you must eliminate this cause. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.

So, do buy a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today. This not only means instant relief, but by soothing, healing and strengthening your weak and disordered stomach a little "Pape's Diapepsin" keeps your digestive system healthy and helps to prevent various disorders.

SIX SECONDS FOR SAFETY

"All the time is train time," at grade crossings," the Pittsburgh Motor Club reminds motorists in its Christmas Safety campaign. The expression is one of the "six seconds for safety wise cracks" prepared by the club. With it comes a reminder that 25,775 persons were killed in this country last year in automobile accidents.

WELL MAY YIELD SECRET OF MURDERS

CARBONDALE, Pa., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Investigation of the slayings of former Mayor J. Charles Hundley and his second wife, Luella, who were shot to death in their home here Wednesday night, today centered about a tiled well in the backyard of the nearby home of the former Mayor's son, Victor A. Hundley, 39. The son is in the county jail at Murphysboro, charged with the crime.

Discovery of a few wilted weeds and a brick, which had not been in the well long enough to become soaked through by water, late yesterday spurred the authorities on in their dragging of the bottom of the well by grappling hooks in an attempt to find the missing automatic pistol with which the couple were killed.

Sheriff Flanagan thinks that the pistol was thrown in the well by the slayer, who then threw rubbish on top of it.

Victor Hundley chatted with the sheriff in the jail last night, but was not questioned. He said he would like to give any assistance he could toward clearing up the slaying. He suggested a pistol missing from his home might be found in a tool box on a farm owned by his father. Search was made there without success.

An old blue serge coat with a blood spot on the right sleeve, which was found yesterday in the basement of the son's home, will be sent to St. Louis for analysis to determine whether the stains are of human blood. Previously a blood-stained khaki shirt had been found in the son's home. His wife explained he had worn the shirt while quail hunting last Monday.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE MIRROR

By LILLIACE M. MITCHELL

LOLITA shook her head a little sadly: "Oh, I'd love to be married right away, Hal, we've waited—so long! But mother—" she sighed and said no more.

"Still her hip?" Hal asked practically, trying to keep his voice level and firm.

"Yes, and the worst of it is that the doctor simply cannot diagnose the case at all satisfactorily."

"I'd like to see her a minute," Hal remarked carelessly.

A few moments later he was ushered by the solicitous Lolita into her mother's sleeping apartment. The large front room on the second floor of the house overlooked a well-kept lawn and generous flower borders. In comparison with her slender, white-faced daughter, Mrs. Morrison looked blooming enough to be her younger sister rather than the mother. She looked up at Hal sociably.

"It was nice of you to come up, Hal," she said in carefully-modulated tones, gentle and yet thrilling. "It gets lonely here."

Hal glanced towards Lolita.

"Lolita is busy downstairs so much of the time, you see," explained Mrs. Morrison. "The lawn and the flowers, and my trays . . . I don't know what I'd do without her, Hal . . ."

"I got a rather wonderful antique mirror in at the shop today, Mrs. Morrison," Hal said abruptly. "I was just wondering if you wouldn't like to have it hung on this wall. Then you could have your back towards the front windows and have a good light by which to read during the day, and yet you'd see everything that went on in the mirror up there. Just like the Lady of Shalott, you know."

A gentle smile flittered over her face. "Yes, I am like the Lady of Shallot," she admitted gracefully. "Thanks, Hal, I'll love the mirror. I don't suppose I'll ever see as many interesting things in this mirror as she saw in that one of hers but . . thanks, Hal, I'll love it."

"I was sure you would," he said promptly, "and so I brought it along in the back of the car with me. I'll chase down and get it and hang it right now. Then in the morning you'll see all the sights. Hip any better?"

"Not a bit," she mourned softly. "I don't suppose I'll ever step again, Hal. It's hard . . . . it's cruel . . . ."

"Yes, it's certainly cruel," he said absently. Then he straightened up and hurried from the room.

The mirror was surely antique. In the bright morning sun the objects passing below looked like the merest shadows and wraiths, so worn was the silver on the back of the glass. Still, as Mrs. Morrison said, it was better to see everything that went on in that, shadowy as it was, than to have to lie facing the glare of the windows all day long in order to see the few people who passed.

In the late afternoon the orphans who lived in the big house a block away went walking two by two. Mrs. Morrison watched them tenderly in the mirror. She loved children. She never failed to watch these little ones walking along so demurely under the severe eyes of the teacher in charge. As they passed along an old mare who belonged two blocks down the street galloped homewards. The children all looked after it curiously as though they wished they, too, might run and gallop that way.

Then Mrs. Morrison drew her breath in sharply. A tiger, striped and eager-looking, galloped along the street just as the children had been out of sight a moment or so. With one wild leap Mrs. Morrison jumped from the bed, snatched Lolita's coolie coat, and ran down the front stairs.

"It's got loose from that circus that was in town today," she said to herself hoarsely. "Oh, those children!"

"Mother! MOTHER!" screamed Lolita, chasing her mother willingly but not nearly so fleetly as her mother was able to run.

"Run, children, run!" screamed Mrs. Morrison.

By this time the teacher was herding the children ahead of her and between the teacher and Mrs. Morrison the children were safely within the building.

I never saw such a funny-looking tiger in all my days," said the teacher. "I'm going to quit here, that's what I'm going to do. I'm going to get a straight teaching job where I'm through at 4 o'clock! The matron left today and there'll be a lot to do."

"I'd love to act as matron and take care of the poor little tots," breathed Mrs. Morrison softly.

The teacher sniffed and stared at her incredulously.

"Now, look here, Hal, I'm always willing to do a favor for anyone! But, by Heck, you told me you could get those stripes off the colt in 10 minutes and you've been working 20 and the colt is still tiger-ish looking to my way o' thinkin'. Now are you or ain't you goin' to get them stripes off? Why, the poor old mother hardly knows her own child."

The colt was anxiously seeking his supper from the wary mare who sidestepped and pranced unceasingly.

"Whoa, boy!" said Hal grinning and rubbing steadily on the tiger stripes painted on the colt. "You're a poor excuse for a tiger, but you've served your purpose in life! Did you see her run?" he said joyfully to the man.

"Who—the colt or Mis' Morrison?" asked the man innocently.

"The first invitation to the wedding is out right now," grinned Hal. "It's yours, Amos. I'd—I'd like to ask the colt, too, but Lolita might object."

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A PRETTY FROCK WITH BLOOMERS.

This effective little model was developed in rose color cotton broadcloth, with banding of blue for decoration. The front forms a panel over the center, where it joins the side portions with inverted plait fulness. The sleeve with raglan shoulder is very comfortable. It is full below the elbow and gathered to a narrow band cuff. Neat pockets and a round collar are most becoming. The bloomers are full and are gathered to bands at the leg edges. One could make this in pongee, in linen or in cotton prints.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 2, 4 and 6 years. To make this style for a 4-year-size will require 2¼ yards of 36-inch material; 1⅝ yard of binding or banding is required for the finish as illustrated.

HOOVER GUARDS SCATTER RED AGITATORS

International News Service.

MONTEVIDEO, Dec. 17.—Communists attempted to mar the Uruguayan goodwill visit of President-elect Herbert Hoover with demonstrations, but received stern treatment at the hands of the police and military authorities.

One group bearing banners with the inscriptions "Viva Sandino" and "Viva Nicaragua," was dispersed.

During the three-mile ride from the docks to the Parque Hotel, small knots of men in the crowd broke into derisive shouts as the procession passed.

The motor car bearing the President-elect was flanked by a company of presidential guard cavalry, the troopers forming a solid wall as the horses moved head-to-tail.

This honorary guard was a block long, riding on both sides of the street.

The procession was held up 15 minutes in front of the presidential palace where an enormous, noisy crowd had collected. It was necessary for calvarymen to clear the plaza before the Hoover party could get through.

There were slight disorders due to fights between members of the throng.

President-elect Hoover today was only 800 miles from Gran Chaco, the disputed territory in which fighting has broken out between Bolivian and Paraguayan troops. This city is 450 miles from the Paraguayan frontier.

In the meantime," he added, "Trade and industry are proceeding at record volume, particularly due to the retail trade of the season and the general confidence in stability of commerce because of the small accession to stocks of goods on hand."

BUSINESS MEN OFFER AID TO WOMAN SENT UP FOR LIFE

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Mrs. Ettie May Miller, a work-gnarled charwoman, 48, and looking 60, hardly recognized herself today in the martyr role in which the penal code of Michigan and the acclaim of anti-Volsteadians combined to cast her.

Lansing businessmen have offered to finance an appeal of the case to the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Miller has given birth to 10 children, four of whom are now living.

The gray-haired grandmother is the first woman to come up against the statute, which provides life imprisonment for four-time violators of the prohibition laws.

Until a jury decided that she had bestowed a vinegar cruet of "moon" on two thirsty strangers at her gate, Mrs. Miller was known as just a simple soul, trying to get along under the economic handicaps of a Rooseveltian family, an absentee husband and a cheerfully improvident disposition.

Yellowing newspapers partially paper the walls of the place Mrs. Miller called home. A flower wreathed motto, "As for Me and My House, We Will Serve the Lord," hangs over one of the wider crevices in the wall.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

HOUSE CALLS UP BOULDER DAM BILL TUESDAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The House Irrigation Committee instructed Chairman Smith today to call up the Swing-Johnson Boulder canyon dam bill on Tuesday and ask the House to agree to the Senate amendments.

The action was unanimously taken by the committee after an hour's consideration.

It has been the desire of the committee members to hasten final action on the measure by having the House accept the Senate changes and send it immediately to the President, and thus obviate the delay that would follow if it were sent to conference.

Representative Douglas, Democrat, Arizona, one of the House leaders of the opposition to the legislation, said later that while he still was opposed to the measure, he had not y decided what the next opposition move in the House would be.

"I am even more opposed to the bill than ever," he said, "because the engineers have confirmed my analysis."

Fred Nusskern, 1962 Lowrie street, government witness who refused to identify his friend, Tom Johnston, as a bootlegger during the North Side rum conspiracy trial, today pleaded guilty to perjury. He will be sentenced on January 5 in Federal Court.

Nusskern had testified before the grand jury to payments to Johnston for liquor, the indictment reads. At the trial, he said he couldn't identify Johnston as the man from whom he had purchased liquor or paid the money. Immediately after being withdrawn from the witness stand he was taken to the district attorney's office where, it is said, he told Asaistant United States Attorney R. H. Smith that he had refused to identify Johnston because they had been friends for 19 years and he wanted to give Johnston "a break."

SIX ALARM FIRE SYSTEM PUT IN EFFECT

The Bureau of Fire has established the six alarm system to replace the former unit of four alarms, according to Richard L. Smith, fire chief.

The new system is designed to furnish accurate information on the seriousness of a fire to all engine houses.

When repeated alarms are sounded, apparatus from outlying districts is moved closer to the scene of the fire. Under the four-alarm system, the depleted districts never were clearly indicated. The six-alarm system is expected to furnish a positive check, not only of the fire-threatened district, but also of the sections from which apparatus is removed.

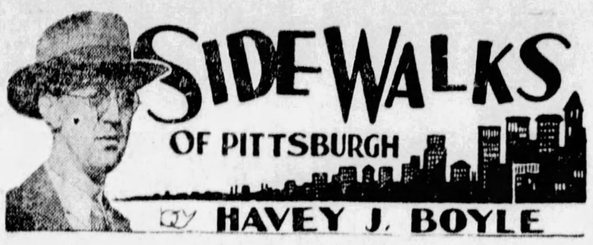
FIFTH AVENUE

ATLANTIC 1000



—DOYLE BATTING FOR BOYLE—

THE hunting season ended Saturday, which probably is a good "break" for a lot of people. Be that as it may, a good bear story has just come to this column through the medium of an East Ender who is intimate with a group of East End nimrods just back from the annual quest. The group holds forth at the Gaibar Hunting Lodge, near the head of Kettle Creek in Potter county.

The State game law prohibiting the shooting of bear weighing less than 100 pounds is largely responsible for this little tale. It is only telling the truth to declare that while the average huntsman is a sportsman who tries to obey the laws, not everybody can make a good estimate of bruin's poundage.

DON WEIDLER, a prominent resident of Albion, Pa., is listed as one of the many gunners in this episode. It seems that Don and a few others remained near the lodge as the remainder of the hunting party started out on a deer run. Weidler was in the woods close by when he heard some rustling in the trees. In another moment he spied a bear, but the animal was holed with the exception of his head.

Weidler went for his trusty rifle, but sizing up the head of the bear he figured that perhaps it was just a cub and of a weight less than 100 pounds. So he refrained from taking a shot. Going back to the lodge he informed two or three others of his find and suggested they go back and use measures to get the game out of the hole that they might be able to determine whether they were within the law.

BACK they went, taking candies along to coax the cub into full view. But the sly animal, after taking the choice bits, went back in his den. Eventually Weidler reached the conclusion that the prey was plenty large enough and he made ready. His first aim might have been excellent, but the gun missed fire. About this time the deer hunters had returned and hearing about the bear story, they started for the spot.

* * *

Just after the huntsman's gun had missed fire, bruin decided to leave those parts. In his eagerness to get away he upset the hunters. Some of them were able to get their guns in action, but the excited shots missed the target and the bear escaped nicely. In doing so he showed that instead of weighing 100 pounds he was more like 250 pounds.

* * *

IF THE game commission wants to help the hunter it will seek to make some arrangements with the bears about advertising their eligibility.

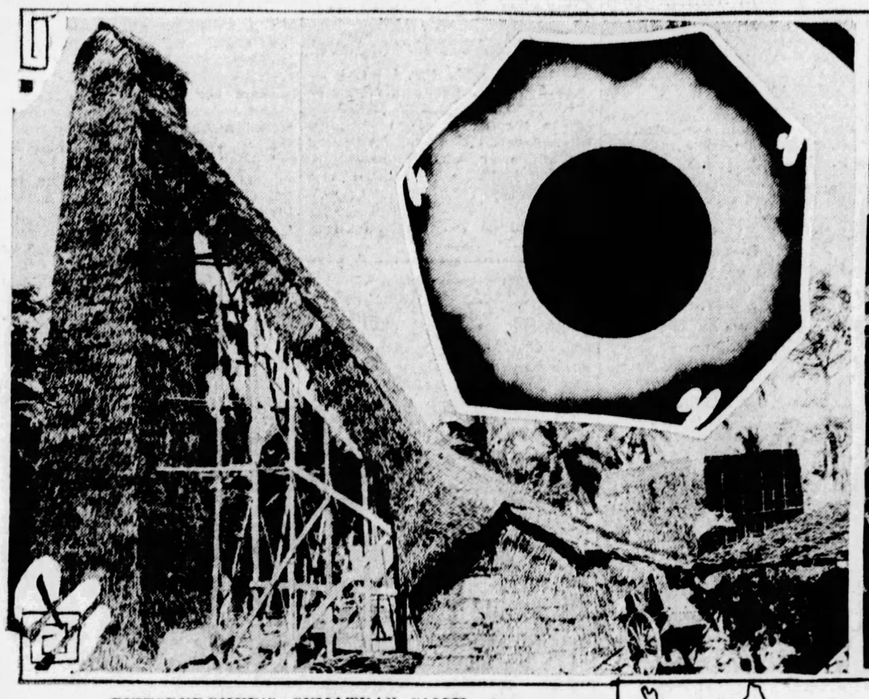
Pittsburgh Astronomer Will Half-Circle World to See Eclipse



PITTSBURGHER'S SUMATRAN CAMP

This is the sort of camp Dr. Heber D. Curtis and the Swarthmore College expedition will set up in Sumatra to study the eclipse of the sun next May 9. The leaf-covered tower in the picture conceals a 63-foot telescope. The inset shows the eclipse as the scientists will see it, with flames of the corona shooting out from the sun's surface.

This is Dr. Curtis, at the telescope in Allegheny Observatory, where he is director. The May eclipse will be the third he has traveled to Sumatra to observe, and the ninth he has studied.

PASTOR SCORES PROPAGANDA OF 'WETS'

Printed propaganda to the end that the prohibition laws of the United States have been a total failure were scored yesterday morning by the Rev. William M. Bracken in his sermon, "Catching Robbers," in the Arch Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Arch street, North Side.

The Rev. Bracken said in part:

"Articles and editorial utterances have frequently appeared of late which give the impression that prohibition enforcement has proved such a failure that the nation is ready to abandon the Volstead Act to try something less severe . . . The United States government would be the last nation on earth to admit that it had been beaten by a band of roughneck bootleggers."

In his sermon on "The Power of Prophecy" in the First Methodist Protestant Church of Allegheny, 611 Union avenue, North Side, the Rev. J. Robert Carlton Clark said in part:

"Faith in the 'Power of Prophecy' is the line of demarcation between the church and the world; the children of God and the so-called anti-Christ. The living church believes in the 'Power of Prophecy' and that God promise in the third chapter of Genesis, fifteenth verse, was literally fulfilled in the birth of the Child of God."

CURTIS TO VIEW ECLIPSE FROM SUMATRA

At Allegheny Observatory Dr. Heber D. Curtis, director, is getting ready to go half-way around the world to see a shadow.

That shadow will bring about the total eclipse of the sun on May 9, 1929, and Dr. Curtis will travel to Sumatra, on the other side of the globe, to study it. In Sumatra the eclipse will last five minutes and six seconds, which, Dr. Curtis says, is a big opportunity to an astronomer.

Since astronomy became a science there have been only 54 minutes of solar eclipses available for observation. That is why, Dr. Curtis says, the next one will be worth traveling more than 10,000 miles to observe. It will be the ninth eclipse Dr. Curtis has seen and the third he has studied from the far-off East Indian island.

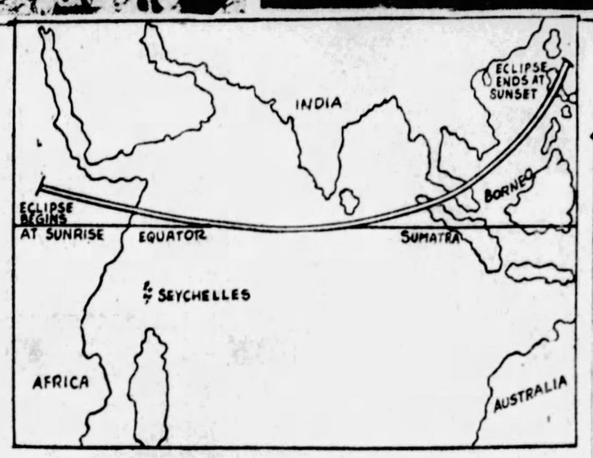
LEAVES JANUARY 15

Dr. Curtis will be associated with a Swarthmore College expedition under Dr. J. A. Miller. British, German, French and Dutch astronomers will be stationed in the path of the eclipse to make observations.

Dr. Curtis is leaving for Sumatra January 15, because he will require at least eight weeks to get ready for a job that will last only slightly longer than five minutes. He will take with him a spectograph to study the corona, the giant flames which leap into space from the sun's surface and are not hidden by the eclipse.

The party will have a camera-telescope 63 feet long. This will be mounted on a tower 60 feet high.

Among the equipment will be an Einstein camera to study deflection by the eclipsed sun of the stars' light, a phenomenon predicted in accordance with the Einstein theory of curved interstellar space.



PATH OF ECLIPSE

This is the path, across the other side of the world, which the eclipse will follow. The eclipse will be visible for slightly more than five minutes. Scientists are spending many months getting ready to study it.

PATTON CHRISTMAS FETE WILL RECALL HISTORY

One of the largest Christmas celebrations ever to be held in Patton township will be that now being arranged for Christmas day on the school grounds.

A large tree, brilliantly lighted, will be one of the features, around which the guests will gather and sing folksongs. A historical review of the Patton district, beginning with the time when Gen. Forbes blazed the trail through Monroeville, also is being planned as one of the features. The following committee is making the preliminary arrangements for the celebration: Frank Lee, chairman; Harry Bishop, Robert Thompson, Oliver Thompson, A. L. Van Enbden, Mr. and Mrs. Boggs Beatty, J. L. Carlisle, Michael Shaughnessy and Joseph Vero.

MISSIONARY TO TELL OF WORK IN AFRICA

Dr. Mary F. Cushman, recently returned from a mission post at Ochileso, West Africa, will tell some of her interesting experiences among the natives at a meeting in the West End Evangelical Protestant Congregational Church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. John Stahl is pastor of the church.

Dr. Cushman has just completed a five-year term in the missionary service. There are no hospitals at Ochileso and her experiences in setting up her medical practice among the natives is most interesting to hear. She began missionary work late in life, having remained with her mother until her death in 1922. Prior to her entry to the mission field, Dr. Cushman had practiced medicine in Maine and Massachusetts.

In addition to speaking at the West End church, Dr. Cushman is also scheduled to speak at McKeesport tonight, in Tarentum on Thursday and in Beaver Falls and Etna on December 23.

EAST END ARMS TO CHECK THUGS

Following in the wake of the activities attending the Christmas season, robbers, yeggs and holdup men are putting up a rush of their own in the East End district.

Many houses have been entered in the last few days, purses snatched, business men and residents held up and other depredations occasioned.

While this is general in the city, banditry appears to have selected East Liberty as its special object.

To offset this activity by the "lower world" extra patrolmen have been placed on the streets, while plainclothes men from the Frankstown and Squirrel Hill police stations also have joined in putting a halt to the activities of the thugs.

ALLEGHENY HIGH PLANS FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

This school numbers among its graduates many of the prominent persons, business and professional men of Pittsburgh. However, due to lack of the above facilities, the school has been dropped from the list of accredited high schools by the Board of Colleges of the Middle States.

To make possible the necessary requirements to regain its former standing among schools and colleges, the alumni is advocating the purchase of property contiguous to the present school building. The value of this property has been fixed at $87,000, and a plea will be made to the Board of Public Education to hear the appeal and make the necessary improvements.

Civil Rot in Dang

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.

Didn't I tell you we would have nothing but arguments as to where this miniature White House is to be located? We will perhaps have another Civil War to see which side of the Montgomery-Ward line it's located on.

I don't think it should be a partisan question at all. As the Republican party is the one that has to continuously live in it, I think they ought to at least let the Democrats locate it anyhow.

Just think, one of those filibusters has held up Boulder Dam for seven years, and when it come to a vote only eleven men were against it. Maybe one man is holding up the Kellogg peace treaty.

Yours, WILL.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR: TABLOID 'LUCIA' AMONG FEATURES

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

WITH much of the interference cleared up by minor changes, the Federal Radio Commission has now taken steps to eliminate stations that persist in radiating heterodyning noises by failing to adhere to their assigned frequencies.

All Pittsburgh stations have received an official warning from the commission that any violation of the laws or regulations will mean termination of their licenses. This warning went to every station in the country.

This week the commission will consider the renewal of licenses which expire January 31. Before this order of business is taken up it is expected that the commission will announce its decision in the WCAE wavelength protest. It has been two weeks since the commission promised to alleviate the situation here by placing WCAE on a new wave or by eliminating interference around the present wave of 245.8 meters.

In a new extended tabloid form, Donizetti's opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor," will be presented by the National Grand Opera Company over WEAF and associated stations at 10:30 o'clock. Genia Zielinska will take the leading part.

Road to Be Named For 'Humoresque' Composer

M'GREGOR, Ia., Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Plans are under way to link this section of the state with Southeastern Minnesota with a paved highway to be named after Anton Dvorak, composer of "Humoresque" and the "New World Symphony." Dvorak made his home at Spillville, Ia., for several years.

Pinchot Thinks Dry Law Up to President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(A.P.)—Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, speaking yesterday before the International Reform Federation and the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, declared that the prohibition law can never be enforced until "a president of the United States makes it his personal business and sticks to it."

DAWES PRAISES JEWS' CHARITY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The philanthrophy of the Jewish race was praised by Vice President Dawes in an address yesterday before the Jewish Welfare Board's national convention.

"When men associate themselves in a collective effort to render self-sacrificing service to their fellow-men," he declared, "They are engaging in what is not only one of the noblest endeavors of good citizenship, but its most effective one. That is the record in this country of Jewish philanthropy."

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, another speaker, called on the American public to continue the same type of welfare work for the men in the nation's military service as during the World War.

Judge Irving Lehman, of New York, president of the board, reviewed the charity work of the organization during the past year.

"Blow Hard, Skinnay"

When children bring home "bad" report-cards from school, don't blame them without further inquiry. Find out if their nervous energy is being drained by a cold, if their attention in the classroom is being distracted by their own coughing and sneezing.

More important still, make certain that they do not blow the nose too hard, or the infection may spread to the sinuses and Eustachian [ear] tubes. And above all, don't wait for the cold to develop into a serious illness.

Before it can become grip or "flu," use GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Millions take this intelligent precaution at the very first hint of a cold—headache, fever, sneezing, dryness in the nose or throat, loss of appetite, or a vague feeling of general discomfort. Thus they either side-step the cold entirely, or throw it off quickly, aided by the powerful tonic and laxative benefits of this thirty-nine year tested remedy.... There is only one genuine BROMO QUININE. Make sure of getting it by emphasizing GROVE'S when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

U. S. BUILDERS MEET HERE IN APRIL

Considerable impetus is expected to be given to building construction and its related activities in Pittsburgh through the selection of this city for the fifteenth annual convention of the Building Officials' Conference of America.

The meeting, which will be held in the William Penn Hotel from next April 22 to 29, will attract to Pittsburgh prominent construction engineers and material dealers from all parts of the nation, who will exhibit the most advanced ideas in their respective fields.

Credit for bringing the convention to Pittsburgh is generally accorded to H. L. Ley, superintendent of the city Bureau of Building Inspection.

Ley, chairman of the arrangements committee, has appointed the following committeemen to assist him:

William T. Mossman, C. C. Dunnella, Robert A. Marble, Press C. Dowler, George S. Boileau, Harold Perrino and William H. Schaffer, Jr.

Man Charges Wife Tried to End Life

Howard A. McCormick, 60 Division street, Sewickley, charges in a bill of complaint, filed in his divorce action in Common Pleas Court against Lillian Grace McCormick, that she became intoxicated during a period she was recovering from a serious illness and on one occasion attempted suicide by using a razor and on another by natural gas.

BUGS BAER Says

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Threatened trouble between Bolivia and Paraguay should not demolish Mr. Hoover's peace picnic.

There is a "welcome" on every doormat.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

And Bolivia and Paraguay are simply going to the mat.

Everything was going fine until last Tuesday. The Peruvian school children were singing:

"The army and Mr. Hoover's navy forever."

Suddenly a small but neat republic in Central America hauled off and slammed its sister republic on the chinstrap.

Night comes swiftly in the tropics.

One word was the cheerleader for another.

Then the League of Nations stuck in its two cents.

The League got an answer sharp enough to bob an anteater's nose.

It looked like either war or its present equivalent—peace.

Europe has seventeen or eighteen peace treaties it is willing to exchange for a little neighborly strife.

The result will be another conference.

This trip reverses the usual procedure.

The navy took Mr. Hoover over.

But it may require the army to bring him back.

Clemenceau, the Tiger of France, was going shopping for a new set of stripes.

The Tiger was optimistic. He said:

"This trouble can't be serious.

"I didn't start it."

The Turkish ambassador has nothing to say that can be translated.

Don't dope YOUR COUGH

IT is not wise to use remedies which depend upon "dope" such as narcotics, chloroform, cannabis or tar products. They may stop your cough temporarily by numbing the tissues, as most cough mixtures do, but this is not enough.

The inflamed air passages must be soothed naturally, the germ-laden mucus loosened and expelled in order to effect a lasting recovery.

PERTUSSIN assists Nature to accomplish these results in a remarkably short time—and it is absolutely harmless.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Dates for Coming Out Dances Often Taken Two Years Ahead

FEW folks expect social leaders and mothers of sub-debutantes realize how far-sighted hostesses must be in arranging their entertainments. Many a person would be astonished to know that dates for coming-out balls are often taken two years ahead of time. Holiday dates, such as Thanksgiving and Christmas eve, are always taken months and months and months ahead of time.

Few there are, I dare say, who know that Christmas eve of next year has already been taken. On that date, December 24, 1929, the J. Barlow Cullums will give a ball in the exclusive Pittsburgh Club for their daughter, Mollie, who came out this winter in New York. Mollie and her father and mother have been at the Plaza, New York, throughout the Gotham season, but will come home for Christmas. It was rumored that Mollie was to be presented here, perhaps during the holidays.

But I understand now that she will be introduced at a large garden party in early June at the family home in Sewickley.

Mollie's family is one of the oldest in this country. One of her great-grandfathers (I really don't know just how many "greats" should precede) Maj. Jacob Mytiner, was a member of Gen. Washington's mounted guard, and was with that famous American throughout the hardships at Valley Forge. Another ancestor of pretty Mollie, Col. Conrad Bucher, engaged in three colonial campaigns.

I HAVE such an interesting and surprising bit of news today about one of our debutantes, and that is the announcement by the John W. MacGregors, of South Negley avenue, of the marriage of their daughter, Janet, and Mr. Ira C. Robinson, youngest son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Robinson, of Wheeling, W. Va. The ceremony was performed yesterday in Wellsburg, W. Va. Janet, you remember, came out at a tea dance given November 5, in the University Club, by her parents, Mr. Robinson is a senior at Washington and Jefferson College.

BUT I want to talk about Rhoda Gamble's debut. Her father and mother will present her at a tea-dance in the University Club on Thursday afternoon, you know.

Her mother's aides will be Mrs. William Akin, Mrs. Robert Alderdice, Mrs. Richard J. Behan, Mrs. Andrew Bart Boger, Mrs. Albert S. Beymer, Mrs. Ruth Denny, Mrs. George Edwards, Mrs. William Fawcett, Mrs. John Freeman, Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins, Mrs. Clark Hammond, Mrs. T. B. Gregory, Miss Margaret Farrell, Mrs. Raymond N. Ehrhardt, Mrs. Thomas Coleman, Mrs. James Kelso Boyd, Mrs. J. Edward Lewis, Mrs. H. Fred Mercer, Mrs. William Linderman, Mrs. Orlando Miller, Mrs. Arch McGrew, Mrs. John Potter, Mrs. Lewis Reineman, Mrs. Paul Titus, Mrs. M. Baird Young, Mrs. Howard Zacharias and Miss Sara Siebert.

Rhoda has asked sister buds and Mary Lewis, Nancy Brown and Elizabeth Jenkins to be her aides.

AND still debutantes events are being announced! The Clinton Sumner Bradleys, of Morewood Gardens, will give a dinner dance January 5, in the Logue Vue Country Club. Have you heard for Louise Evans, debutante daughter of the Henry Oliver Evanses of South Negley avenue?

And of course you knew that Oliver Evans is giving a dance for his sister Louise on Friday night in the Pittsburgh Club. Louise is having several of her friends as her house guests over the dance, arriving on Thursday and remaining over Sunday. These girls are Priscilla Palmer, of New London, Conn.; Elizabeth Geist, of Villa Nova, Pa., and Joan Nichols, of Detroit. Mr. Evans will have as his guest George M. Black, Jr., of Detroit.

Feud Seen as Cause Of Double Slaying

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Police expressed the belief today that a feud between suspects in a hold-up case caused the slaying of Soro Graziano, 22, and his 18-year-old wife, Mary, near a deserted bungalow at Elmont, Long Island, early Saturday morning.

Graziano had been indicted, but never apprehended, for a hold-up in Brooklyn. Police are seeking Frank Plais, acquitted in the case.

HARBOR FUNDS DEPEND ON COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Chairman Dempsey of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, said yesterday that any action seeking the passage of the $48,435,415 rivers and harbors bill at this session of Congress largely depended upon President Coolidge's attitude toward the measure.

Chairman Dempsey and Chairman Jones, of the Senate Commerce Committee, will confer in the next few days with President Coolidge relative to the measure, the House chairman said. The future course of action by his committee, he added, would rest largely on the result of the conference.

The committee, which reported the bill favorably at the last session, has before it a motion to push for action on the measure. In his annual message, the President, however, expressed himself against enactment of river and harbor improvement legislation at this session.

The bill would authorize initial expenditures on 81 projects, affecting most of the states.

Airplanes May Hunt 2 Missing Canoeists

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—William L. Haley, Parkersburg, father of Mrs. Glen Hyde, who, with her husband, a resident of Hansen, Ida., began a canoe trip down the Colorado River canyon, declared that he would ask Gov. Gore today to request the Federal government to institute an airplane search for the couple. His daughter and her husband began their trip on November 16, he said, and were 10 days overdue at Needles, Ariz.

Army Blimps Now Have Tank Car Gas Stations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The latest achievement in lighter-than-air aerial navigation was announced by the War Department yesterday in the development of tank car gas stations for army dirigibles.

Instead of taking 1,200 small cylinders for helium gas to fill army blimps as has heretofore been necessary to obtain a sufficient supply, one tank car mounting three large tanks with a capacity of 206,000 cubic feet will be used.

The army has placed two of these cars in service between the helium gas plants and the airdromes throughout the country.

KEY WILL TELL GIRL IF SHE'S TO BE HEIRESS

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Elizabeth Wright, 14-year-old ward of the Asheville Juvenile court, is awaiting the arrival of a strong box key to learn whether or not she is to inherit a modest fortune.

Left destitute three years ago by her parents, she is believed to be the sole heir of S. N. Gurley, who died here last week, leaving an estate estimated at from $20,000 to $26,000.

After her parents were gone, Elizabeth stayed under the jurisdiction of the court, but spent many vacations with the aged man and his wife. Then Mrs. Gurley died and the visits became more infrequent. Neighbors say, though, that Gurley left everything to the girl, but until the key to the strong box is found she will not know.

Banks in both North and South Carolina have been advised to hold funds on deposit to Gurley's credit while the search goes on.

2,750 at Wedding 'Make Whopee' For 9 Days

BELGRADE, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—One of the longest and most expensive wedding celebrations known to these parts has just ended in the village of Sotine near Mitrovitza.

Festivities after the actual ceremony continued for nine days and nights, with 550 invited and 2,300 uninvited guests drinking, eating, dancing and singing without interruption. Six cows, 46 pigs, 16 calves, 600 chickens, 300 geese and 300 turkeys were slaughtered for the occasion, and 20,000 quarts of beer, 10,000 quarts of wine and 200 quarts of plum whisky were consumed.

RUSSIAN POLICY OF U. S. LAUDED

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The National Civic Federation made public last night a letter from its acting president, Matthew Woll, to President Coolidge, informing the nation's chief executive that a cross section of American opinion, taken by the federation, had revealed a "wholehearted and unqualified" indorsement of the government's policy of non-recognition of soviet Russia.

Attached to the letter was a list of representative citizens who, with more than 5,000 others, Mr. Woll said, had signed a statement approving the federation's opposition to recognition until the soviet regime should have ceased "its subversive activities in the United States."

Other conditions of recognition mentioned in the statement thus approved were compensation to Americans for property expropriated by the Soviet, payment of the imperial internal loans held by Americans, and demonstration that the Soviet government was "fit to associate with civilized nations."

Copper Wire Theft Charged to Miner

HEARST PAPERS SPONSOR YULE CAROLS BY RADIO

Through the presentation, over a nation-wide network of radio stations, of a beautiful Christmas carol concert, and by the free distribution of millions of booklets containing the words and music for the carols the Hearst newspapers will sponsor, on this Christmas Eve, the mightiest and most inspiring religious song service the world has ever known.

Broadcast units dotting the country from points along the Atlantic seaboard to the sunny shores of California will carry this sacred, soul-uplifting concert to the scores of millions of radio listeners.

NATION TO SING

As the old, familiar carols that comprise the program are sent winging through the air, all those listening will be invited to sing in unison, with radio accompaniment, and thus America will echo, from coast to coast, with joyful, melodious sound in observance of the coming of another Christmas Day.

In order that the hosts of carolers may receive the utmost enjoyment from this history-making Yule service, the Hearst Newspapers will issue, with their Christmas Eve editions, and at no extra cost, beautiful 16-page Christmas Carol Booklets containing the details of the program and words and music for the carols to be sung by the audience in unison with the broadcast artists.

DR. CADMAN ON PROGRAM

The conductor of the remarkable service will be a clergyman whose voice is known to many millions of radio listeners. He is the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, radio minister and former president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

The soloists and choristers whose voices will be heard via radio are members of two of the world's most famous musical organizations. They are the Paulist Choristers, Father Finn, director, and The Mediaevalists, of New York. In addition to directing his large choir of men and boy singers, Father Finn will preside at the organ. He is noted as one of the greatest of all church musicians.

GET BOOKS HERE

From 11 p. m., Eastern standard time, until the midnight hour, Dr. Cadman and the Choristers and Mediaevalists will present a service of impressive beauty. When the hands of the clock are joined together, pointing to the numeral XII, the voices of the singers will be hushed for a moment and then will be heard the sweet voice of the Trinity chimes of New York, tolling the midnight message which, each year, is New York's first "Merry Christmas" greeting.

In Pittsburgh and vicinity those who wish to join the country-wide carol chorus will receive their radio accompaniment from Station KDKA. They will receive their Christmas Carol booklets with the Monday editions of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. No other newspaper will offer the program and song pamphlet.

RAINBOW CHASING

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayre, pretty and young, awakens on the morning of her twenty-first birthday rebelling against the dinginess of the New York apartment she shares with her father, an unsuccessful inventor. She craves thrills and the joys and luxuries of life. She meets handsome Carroll Dudley, artist and aviator, at a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend. He pursuades her to pose for him and after professing his love for her, which she accepts, it develops that he is already married. Added to this he exhibits her picture at a party in violation of his promise not to do so. Madge, blind with rage, cuts the canvas to ribbons and rushes from his studio. She is struck by the automobile of Michael Winchester, scion of an old and wealthy New York and Virginia family. In the hospital she finds herself surrounded by every attention the Winchester millions can give her, and more too, as young Winchester falls in love with her. Winchester sends her to Atlantic City to recuperate. When she returns Winchester begs her to dine with him at his home, after which he proposes to her. She finds herself in his arms, consenting, if he wants her, knowing that she doesn't love him. She is still in love with Dudley. The wedding was a great event. It was a great moment in the life of thrills that Madge once longed for until the moment of departure on the honeymoon. From the window of the car she waves to the cheering throng and then not five feet away meets the bitter smile of Carroll Dudley. They arrive at the Winchester homestead in Virginia. The next day Madge, astride a spirited Arab, loses control of the animal which runs wild toward the steep banks of a creek. Michael races alongside and halts the steed on the bank of the creek. Madge loves him more for his bravery.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"YES, something—something rather intimate."

"I would not pry into your secrets, my boy, but still, to whom would you turn for advice if not to me?"

"That's what I feel, Padre," Michael said sincerely. "Well, last night we were sitting on the observation platform of the car, and I rose and stood behind her chair. She knew I was about to kiss her, and—and, Padre, she turned her face away, subconsciously avoiding the touch of my lips on hers."

"And that hurt; yes, I understand," he said gently.

"Hurt!" retorted Michael, with a twisted smile. "Yes, it hurt!"

"I know you too well to ask—you did not force your attentions on her? I know you didn't. It wouldn't have been you, my lad."

"I know you are right, Padre," Michael said warmly, "only now somehow, having talked with you, having got it off my chest, it makes it easier to be patient." He rose and held out his hand. "And forgive me for keeping you out of bed."

"My dear boy," the other said affectionately, "I am only too happy that you do not forget your old tutor. I must come over and meet this beautiful wife of yours, and I shall not forget you, Michael, nor her—in my prayers tonight."

Back in his own room in a calmer frame in mind, Michael started as a clap of thunder crashed suddenly overhead. A storm was upon them, and in a few seconds was raging furiously; the rain descended in torrents.

Michael was closing his windows when his door was flung open. He turned to see Madge, pale but wondrously beautiful—clad in nothing but a filmy pair of black chiffon pajamas, her little feet thrust into a pair of gold embroidered mules.

"Michael! Michael! I'm frightened," she cried in genuine fear.

He opened his arms, and she ran to him like a terrified child. She clung to him, and he lifted her in his arms, and sitting down on a chair, took her on his knees.

"What a fuss!" he said tenderly. "What a scene about a storm. Nothing can hurt you, my sweet."

But she was still frightened, both her arms about his neck, so that blood pounded wildly through his veins at the touch of her.

But he must not . . . She had come to him unthinking in her fear . . . He must not . . . He must not even let her know how her beauty tempted him. He must play the game according to the rules as he saw them.

He sat there holding her while the storm crashed overhead. Presently the lightning and the deafening thunder went farther away from them, although they could still hear distant grumblings. Still nervous, but no longer so tense, Madge grew sleepy.

She slept, and Michael sat holding her. Then with infinite precaution, he managed without waking her to lay her on the outside of his bed. He covered her with a silk dressing gown, and until she woke at dawn, he sat silently watching by her side.

The next two weeks were nightmares for Madge. She remained on terms of excellent friendship with Michael, but there it stopped. She sensed a wall between them and the knowledge that it was there hurt her deeply—more deeply than she cared to admit, even to herself.

Was this married life, she wondered. Every night, Michael would come to her room to wish her goodnight, after which she would lie awake wondering what caused his attitude of coldness.

Pride prevented her from asking. A frank word from either one of them might easily have torn down this barrier between them, but from mistaken chivalry on Michael's part, and wounded vanity on Madge's, the barrier remained.

She was upset, unsettled, irritable. So that when Michael suggested them to go to Long Island to escape the heat, she acquiesed readily, hoping a change of scene might bring something—anything—that would wipe out their misunderstanding.

Madge found Michael's Long Island home infinitely more luxurious than the old Southern mansion. It was a huge place of grey stone, set in elaborate and formal gardens. There were no less than 42 servants besides gardeners and chauffeurs. But there was nothing to tear down that wall between her and her husband.

One evening, in desperation, Madge tried to find solace in talking over her troubles with her father.

"Aren't you happy, my dear?" he asked after a bitter remark had escaped her.

"Is anyone happy?" she fenced.

"You care for Michael," he reminded her.

"Isn't the question more if he cares for me?" Madge got up and touched a bell. Anna entered. "Anna, tell them to send cocktails."

"Now, this, isn't it?" her father questioned a little dubiously.

"Oh, I feel restless," Madge confided. "Father, does a man love his wife if———" she paused.

"If what, my dear?"

"If he kisses her a brotherly Goodnight!" Madge said daringly.

Sayre coughed. "Well," he answered with evident embarassment, "these things, my dear, must run their course. I am rather inclined to think that the old-fashioned kind of love, the love that is slow in forming, is deeper truer and more steadfast than that born amid the rush of today. I come of a different generation, and young people look on us old fogies as knowing nothing, but I believe that Michiel loves you with the depth and sincerity that may of itself make him a little diffident. Remember, my dear, you have not been married, a month. Perhaps Michael feels a certain delicacy—" he stopped. Then, "it is such an awkward question to discuss. But I am confident that you have a married man who will mean ultimate happiness for you, a man who—"

He was interrupted by the entrance of Michael, who was followed by Anna, carrying a tray on which were cocktails.

"I have just received a cable from my sister," Michael said.

"From the Duchess," Sayre supplemented with evident relish, glad of the opportunity to drop the awkward discussion with his daughter.

Michael waited until Anna had left the room. "You know, Madge, that Edith and I have always been pals? She has cabled me that she is about to divorce Penndale, and she wants me badly. You do see I can't let her down, don't you?"

"Of course, Michael!" Madge answered, hoping he intended to ask her to accompany him.

"I can't possibly refuse, considering the circumstances," he went on. "The Berengaria sails tomorrow at midnight, and my reservation is being taken care of now."

Madge got up and took the tray that Anna had placed on the table. She offered her father and Michael cocktails and took one herself. As she raised her glass she decided that while Michael was away, she would not be dull. She would fill the huge house and give party after party!

"Here's luck to your journey, Michael!" she cried, a trifle hysterically. "And don't worry about me! I'll amuse myself while you're gone!"

CHAPTER XVI.

MADGE did not have five minutes alone the next day with Michael. He was occupied in a hundred details from which even his wealth could not save him.

She felt vaguely hurt and disappointed. Why had he not asked her to accompany him? Little could she know that Michael was longing to ask her, but had come to believe that his presence irritated her.

So the wall between them grew higher, and neither of them attempted anything approaching a frank talk.

When Michael was ready to start for the boat that evening, he took her in his arms.

"Please take the greatest care of my favorite person," he said tenderly.

But Madge was angry with him, and though his arms soothed her, she turned a cool cheek toward him. Pain lit his eyes, but she did not see it. Then, as he kissed her cheek instead of her lips for which he hungered, she patted his shoulder and cried with pretended gayety:

"Don't flirt with every pretty girl you meet, Michael!"

Love's Seal -:- -:- By Madge Geyer

THE golden circlet that is the outward sign
Of the envisioned happiness dwelling in the heart.
That symbol of a Love that once enkindled
Knows no ending and finds safe haven in the Beloved.
Love's seal, it is, and worn with pride and joy
In the happy bondage of Love's fetters.
A slave? Perhaps, yet better slave of Love than Vain repinings when Love passes by or is ignored.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

—By ADELE GARRISON—

Lillian Thrusts Herself in as Madge's Protectress

THERE was a sneer, not untipped with venom in Lillian's assertion that she was "wild to know what darling Ede is after," and I think my emotions at hearing it were not unlike those of a small boy whose chum openly flouts his enemies.

Lillian is nothing if not partisan. She has no personal feeling against Edith Fairfax, indeed for many years Edith and her sister, Leila, were protegees of Lillian and her particular coterie of artist friends. But though we have rarely spoken of the girl, I know that Lillian is not only cognizant of Edith's attempts to win Dicky away from me, but that she strongly resents them, and watches every opportunity to make things uncomfortable for Dicky's business partner in the magazine venture.

I wasted no time in telling her of my telephone conversation.

"She wanted to inquire after Junior and to reproach us for leaving her to find out about the accident from Alfred Durkee, who learned it from Mr. Veritzen to whom Noel telephoned."

"Sounds like the 'house that Jack built,' to me," she commented with a grin.

"It is," I smiled back. "But I think that was her real reason for calling. Indeed she said she wanted to talk to Dicky, and I am to tell him to call her, a message which I haven't had a chance to give him yet."

"Save it," Lillian advised, "until he begins to rag you about Veritzen bringing those things to Junior. Oh! I've been snooping around, been a regular Tabby at the mouse hole this afternoon. I know all the dope about the basket of fruit and the toys, and Dicky's dramatic entrance. In fact I sent Harry over on a rescue expedition."

"You dear," I exclaimed, a warm little feeling at my heart.

"Thanks for the spinach," she said. "But I wanted to see you before the Dicky bird had a chance to sharpen his claws on you. If I don't miss my guess, he'll work himself up beautifully over this Veritzen call, and insinuate deliciously that you're putting your employer before your chee-l-d. Now, I don't often interfere, but if you let him bluff you into giving up your work, I'll give you two black eyes. Honest to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, I will."

"Don't worry!" I assured her, when I could speak for laughing at her vehemence. "I haven't the slightest intention of giving up my work. I've had a confab with Katherine, and she assures me that Junior really will be better off without me this winter except for week-ends."

She looked at me keenly.

"Doesn't set so very well?" she commented, then at my flush, she clapped her hand on my shoulder.

"Don't you think I know?" she said. "I've felt the same way about Marion when I left her with you, and that's the last word in idiocy. But buck up, old dear, Katrina's probably right, and at any rate, you know your boy is in the most capable hands possible. So stop worrying and save all your strength for your coming interview with Dicky. You'll need it. Where is he now?"

"With Junior," I returned.

"Then he'll be along pretty soon," she said, "for Katrina knows Dicky excites Junior more than anybody else and she'll find a way to shoo him off the perch before very long. How about it?

"Do you want to stay here until he calls you? I'm willing to risk the fate of the innocent bystander."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, December 18

UNDER the high stimulus of Mars in trine aspect with Luna, and sustained by other sidereal urges to activity and initiative, this may be predicted as an interesting if not exciting day. There may be changes and new ventures, but there is some hint of duplicity, fraud or treachery unless the mind be kept watchful. With care the finances should react to this fine spirit of enterprise.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a lively and adventurous state of affairs during the year, with the energies and spirit of initiative under fine stimuli. There is some menace of fraud, confusion or duplicity, but with this safeguarded against, all should thrive. Personal affairs are likewise lively and flourishing.

A child born on this day may be versatile, resourceful and clever in many directions, either of which would be successful.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

—By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND—

Over-Fatigue May Lessen Resistance

NOT long ago I read that fatigue does not increase susceptibility to illness. Experiments on rats made at one of the great universities were said to show that, if anything, fatigue increases resistance to disease.

DR. COPELAND

One swallow does not make a summer. It will take a lot more testimony to convince me that over-fatigue is not dangerous to human beings. I am not up on rats, except to say they are shrewder and smarter in some ways than men. They dodge traps and manage to survive when even an American Indian would be caught. I am prepared to believe that they can resist fatigue as a man cannot.

I doubt if honest tiredness ever hurt anybody. Work is needed for everyone. You will not thrive unless you use your muscles—all of them—and use them enough to provoke perspiration.

Any sort of muscular effort made in spurts may do more harm than good. Spasmodic, struggling, exhausting efforts, particularly if long continued, may injure the heart and cause real damage to that organ. On the other hand, regular, systematic, sustained exercise to the point of fatigue will do you good.

The other day I saw a woman close to 70 years of age who has rejuvenated herself and is keeping this second "youngness" by daily exercises to the music of a phonograph. She can skip and dance and float through the air as gracefully as any professional dancer you ever saw.

This woman had curvature of the spine in her youth. Instead of wearing a plaster cast or some steel-banded supporting device, she chose to find movements and exercises to develop the withered muscles and to strengthen her twisted back and shoulder. She has succeeded so well that little evidence remains of her early deformity.

Each of us should find some physical activity to keep fit. The laborer needs no addition to his daily toil, but everybody should exercise enough each day to be really and truly tired.

To be tired is one thing and to be over-fatigued is another. Whether the overfatigue is the result of long-continued and exhausting manual labor or whether it comes from mental effort, there can be no doubt that the lowered vitality leaves the body less able to resist disease invasion.

Science has made many tests to prove the effects of injury upon the body. For instance, if a given part of the body of a rabbit is crushed and then the rabbit is injected with the germ of tuberculosis, the injured portion will be the part first involved by the germ action.

It stands to reason that those persons who are damaged by overfatigue or otherwise, will be the first to suffer when epidemics sweep the earth.

But whether our disease resistance is or is not lowered by over-fatigue, we do know that our efficiency is impaired by it. Quantity production in any factory is increased by having regular intervals of rest and refreshment.

The records of every industrial plant show that the very great majority of accidents happen late in the day when fatigue has lessened alertness and physical prowess.

We will watch the experiments on fatigue with interest, of course, but at present we stick to our guns and insist that overfatigue is an important factor among the predisposing causes of disease.

Answers to Health Queries

R. E. L.—Q. I have been suffering with a gall-bladder condition for three years, causing pain in back and under the shoulder blades; also stomach distress. What would you advise other than operation? Would it be dangerous not to have the gall bladder removed under the conditions?

A. If the condition has not yielded to treatment more drastic measures are necessary. Draining of the gall bladder is sometimes effective. Why not be governed by your doctor's judgment? If the gall bladder is diseased it is causing infection in the system.

N. L.—Q. Will drinking cream cause indigestion and heartburn? How long can one live on milk alone?

2. In a case of intestinal irritation would orange juice as an anti-acid tend to aggravate the trouble?

A. It will in some cases. This would depend upon the general conditions surrounding the case. If this diet is necessary the doctor advising it will give the patient all the necesary information.

2. Depending upon the type of the trouble. Oranges become alkaline in the system and would not tend to aggravate acidity for this reason.

E. L. L.—Q. Can toxic goiter be cured without operation?

A. If you have such a condition you should be under the constant care of a physician.

D. R.—Q. What do you advise for removing small moles?

2. What is the cause of liver spots?

A. Small moles may be removed by the electric needle. The X-ray, radium and dioxide snow have been successfully employed in getting rid of moles. All these methods of treatment should be applied by a physicion who is an expert in their use.

2. This condition is due to poor intestinal elimination. Constipation should be corrected.

M. M. J. Q.—How can I reduce the calves of the legs?

A.—It is difficult to reduce weight in any part of the body without reducing in general. Exercise and massage may help.

M. D. Q.—I bend forward from the waist and do not have enough strength to hold myself erect. Could you suggest something to strengthen my back?

A.—Have your back examined. A properly fitted brace or support should help you.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Envelopes

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Should anything be written on the inside envelope of wedding announcements? READER.

YES, the name. With no abbreviations except the necessary ones. Mr. and Mrs. Atwood Kensington. Or Miss Allison Brown. Or Mr. Gregory Kent. The address is not written on this inside envelope.

Signing the Card

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: How should I sign my Christmas cards, Mrs. Mary Jones or Mrs. William Jones? I am not having them especially engraved that is, they are just cards that I have bought in a stationery store. MRS. A. B. S.

IF you are signing your cards, you should not use either of these signatures. To begin with, a signature in the form of "Mrs. Mary Jones" is never correct, except on business papers. "Mrs. William Jones" would be correct to use when your Christmas card is formally engraved and worded in the third person. Like this:

Mrs. William Jones
sends greetings for a
and a Happy New Year.

But this, of course, is not a signature.

Let us suppose that the Christmas card you chose carries this message: "With best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year." This is really a note and demands a first person signature, just as a letter would. That is, it means "Here is Mary Jones, with best wishes for you." Just as you would say over the telephone, "This is Mary Jones." Therefore, for this informal kind of card you would sign your name, "Mary Jones," or, if you use, as most women do, the surname of your maiden name also, you would sign, "Mary Smith Jones." But don't use the title "Mrs." in your signature if the use is informal.

Meditations of a Wife

Love—And Other Trifles

WHEN a woman is not "getting over" a love affair she is usually getting into one; but a man is so ambidextrous that he can do both at the same time without changing gear or confusing his signals.

Ninety dollars spent on a new set of golf sticks never seems an extravagance to a man the morning after he has won $4 in a poker game.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl -:- Story by Lloyd Mayer -:- By John Held, Jr.

YES SIR, HE'S A NICE KIND OF A DOG! WHAT'S HIS NAME?
I HAVEN'T GIVEN HIM A NAME YET, I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO CALL HIM!
WHAT? NO NAME? HE CAN'T BE THAT WAY, NOBODY'S LIKE THAT! HOW CAN THE POOR LITTLE FELLOW KNOW WHO HE IS, WITHOUT A NAME?
NOW, NAPOLEON MADE A NAME FOR HIMSELF AND SO DID RED CAGLE. BUT THIS IS A MUTT, AND YOU'LL HAVE TO GIVE HIM A NAME WITHOUT A NAME HE IS AN UNKNOWN!
OHGOSH! WE CAN'T GIVE HIM A COMMON DOG NAME. HE'S NOT A COMMON KIND OF A DOG!
NO, IT MUST BE SOMETHING UNUSUAL!

"My dear, I'm about to SWOON with exHAUStion at this point—I mean I'm comPLETEly BAFfled and nonPLUSSED because Arab and I decided th' other DAY, my dear, that it was high TIME PUPsy-wups had a NAME because I mean the way it IS the situation's too utterly HECtic, my dear, because as Arab pointed OUT how can the poor darling know who he IS unless he's got a NAME, my dear, do you know what I mean? But I'm all hot and BOTHered because it's REALly awfully SErious christening a DOG something, my dear, when he's as unUSual and everything as PUPsy-wups because I mean you can't just call him ROver or Fido or something inANE like THAT, my dear, because I mean I think you ought to kind of think UP some awfully sort of oRIGinal and SNAPpy title for the beastie but ACtually, my dear, ARab simply SLEW me because while we were HOTly deBAting this matter he kept making the most riDIC reMARKS like f'r instance that NAPOleon made a name for himSELF but of course we couldn't expect PUPsy-wups to be so acCOMmodating because he wasn't a DOG of WAR or something—can you COPE with it? Well, ANYways, my dear, I'm TOO upSET because ANYways I think it's SIMply POISonous the idea of PUPsy-wups being NAMEless, my dear, because I mean it SOUNDS so vague or something, do you know what I mean?"

News From Film Capital Combined With Announcements Of Theaters

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17.

IF YOU are an Emil Jannings fan don't be too worried about the stories that the talkies have practically put Emil out of business. He is an old established firm and too great a pantomimist to be affected by the introduction of dialog into the films. At least, this is what they say at Paramount. And the statement is backed up by the fact that Emil's contract lasts until next October.

Between now and then he is to make three photoplays. One of these is the Alpine story upon which he is now working. A second is to be "Ellis Island" when they get the story into proper shooting shape. The third, I am told, is "The Concert." This is the play that Leo Ditrichstein starred in on the stage. The plan is to try to engage the services of Ernst Lubitsch as director. Those who know say that Jannings real forte is comedy. With this vehicle and Lubitsch as director, the great German would surely give us all another surprise.

It is not beyond possibility that upon completion of the present contract Emil may take a pretty long vacation. He has long held an ambition to journey around the world. And it is well known that he is not without "temperament." At present he is speaking of this lengthy cruise. But by October he may have changed his mind. Lots of things happen in a year.

Leatrice Joy, Victor, Mates

THE combination of Leatrice Joy and Victor McLaglen seems to have received three hearty cheers from the Fox officials. Leatrice has just completed one picture with the husky Englishman, and has now been signed to play opposite him in a film version of "King of Khyber Rifles." John Ford, the gallant Irishman, will direct.

Speaking of the Irish, it seems that Colleen Moore and John McCormick are planning a little excursion to the "ould country" to shoot some of the beautiful scenery to use as exteriors in Colleen's picture, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." The trip is planned for March. So maybe Colleen will spend St. Patrick's day in the Shamrock isle.

Lillian Gish is to appear next in the title role of "The Miracle Girl." It will be produced for United Artists by Max Reinhardt, Europe's foremost theatrical impressario. It will be the first venture of Reinhardt into the realm of the cinema. The story is a modern romance which is to be filmed against a continental background. In Hollywood, of course. Miss Gish and her mother will accompany Reinhardt's party to the coast, arriving here shortly after Christmas.

Langdon Quits To Find Jinx

HARD luck pursues Harry Langdon. He quit a $5,000 per week vaudeville tour to return to Hollywood to make pictures for Hal Roach, beginning January 1. Then Hal shut down his picture plant until April 1. A sort of "April fool" on Harry.

If you want to know about a real romance of the movies read Will Irwin's book called "The House That Shadows Built." It tells the story of Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount, and is as absorbingly interesting a yarn as ever was penned about a personality in pictures.

It is something of a bromide to say that Venus could never get by in Hollywood. The goddess, as portrayed, would be too tall, too fat to make a hit in the movies. But they might at least have left one of the old girl's features its reputation of perfection. Now it seems that her nose is all wrong, too. For Bernice Hart was turned down by the casting directors because her nose was identical with that of Venus De Milo. So Bernice had the kinks taken out of her nose and has passed her screen test with high honors.

Old Coacher Likes 'Em Wild

ONE of the boys who will be sorry to see the decline of western pictures in the popularity of Hollywood producers is Hank Knight. Back in '63 Hank used to pilot the Wells-Fargo stage between Virginia City and Placerville. Those were the days when the guns of bad men contained lead instead of movie blank cartridges. Hank is 83 now, and one of Hollywood's best film fans. Naturally, he likes the westerns best, and, once in a while, he has been persuaded to act in a drama of the open spaces. But it isn't like the real thing, he says.

Fred Kohler has a finger missing. There is a little mystery about the how and why of it. A visitor on the Paramount lot was impertinent enough to ask him how he lost the digit. "Oh," replied Fred, "I wore it away pointing out Clara Bow to tourists."

They've erected an entire restaurant on Vilma Banky's set in the United Artists' Studio. Everything is complete—even to the famed griddle in the window. Vilma is becoming an expert at browning a stack of wheats. Wouldn't be surprised if Rod La Rocque is having buckwheats for Sunday breakfast these days.

Device Sums Talkie Laughs

THE "Ginometer" is the latest development of the talkies. It registers the number and lengths of the laughs accorded a picture during previews of its silent version. The information thus obtained is utilized in cutting the picture for final release and for synchronizing it with dialog.

"Momart" meanderings: Lina Basquette counting the days till January 7, when she will become Mrs. Peverell Marley—Sylvia Beecher and Leslie Fenton stalling off the "inquiring reporter" looking for news about their rumored engagement—Alice Mills, married, and voted one of Hollywood's most beautiful brides—Hoot Gibson leading an American Legion parade—Hoot was a sergeant in the Tanks—Ruth Elder cheering the parade—and Hoot—Lily Damita practicing English—She has signed a contract agreeing to speak the language perfectly within six months—Lya De Putti excited over her first "solo" air flight—Estella Taylor, one big movie star who doesn't claim to swim, ride, play tennis, golf or bridge—Jane Winton on her way to an out-of-town location—Joan Crawford talking about "Dodo," who, believe it or not, is Doug Fairbanks, Jr.

U. of W. Boys Stop Here, Celebrate Beating Pitt

En route to their homes in the East for the Christmas holidays, 35 students of the University of Wisconsin last night stopped off in Pittsburgh long enough to celebrate the victory of their school over the University of Pittsburgh basketball squad Saturday night in Milwaukee. Five of the students were Pittsburghers.

The group had chartered a bus in Madison, Wis., Saturday afternoon for the Eastern trip and when they learned of the victory for their school over the Pittsburgh team, they decided to celebrate here. Carrying odd pieces of furniture and many signs, the students paraded downtown streets last night.

HOME BURNS, 5 RESCUED

A family of five persons was forced to flee in night clothing early yesterday when fire destroyed a home in Carolina street, Homestead Park. Damage estimated at $10,000 was caused, according to George Allen, owner of the house, and firemen.

The cause of the fire is undetermined. Neighbors awakened Mr. Allen and aided him in rescuing his wife and three children. The blaze had gained much headway when firemen arrived and they concentrated their efforts in saving nearby dwellings.

Wife of Rochester Councilman Dies

ROCHESTER, Pa., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Mary Florence Pfeifer, 38, wife of Councilman Harry E. Pfeifer, died Saturday night, following several days of illness of influenza and pneumonia.

If your car could sing you'd hear it pleading—

"Don't oil me in December as you did in May!"

IN fairness to the maker of your car, follow his recommendations and advice. The oil and grease which served so well during the torrid days of summer won't keep your car running so sweetly now that there's a real chill in the air. It's high time to change to lighter grades of AMOCO Motor Oils and Greases!

Consult the man at your filling station. He has a chart which prescribes the correct grade for your car during the winter months--a grade agreed on by the engineering staff of the factory which built your car and by the technical staff of The American Oil Company. Have your crank case thoroughly cleaned--have the correct grade of AMOCO Motor Oil supplied--and face the winter with a car ready to deliver its best efforts!

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

TO SHIFT TRAYNOR TO SHORTSTOP

THAT the Pittsburgh baseball club's first experiment toward the reconstruction of its infield in training camp next spring will find Pie Traynor shifted to shortstop, and Jim Stroner, minor league recruit of exceptional promise, playing third base, was indicated by the remarks of President Barney Dreyfuss and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss yesterday upon their return from Chicago following the joint session of the National and American Leagues.

Pie Traynor

It seems that what was at first only a tentative plan to move Traynor to the shortfield and to try Stroner at third has become a definite one since the Pirate officials and Manager Donie Bush had a chance to size up the new Buccaneer at closer range and to obtain a lot of new information about him and his apparent possibilities from other baseball men who were in a position to know what they were talking about.

Both the Corsair president and his son say they never were more favorably impressed by a young ball player than they were by Stroner when he met them by appointment in Chicago last Friday and signed a Pittsburgh contract for 1929.

"OF COURSE it is too early to feel sure of anything," said President Dreyfuss, "but if Stroner is only half as good as he is pronounced to be by many well qualified judges of baseball talent, we have a prospect for third base that can hardly fail to pan out. Even in street attire he impressed me strongly. He is as broad as Bill Hinchman and has a pair of hands as big as Honus Wagner's."

Fred Clarke, former Pirate manager, who saw Stroner play a number of games for Wichita in the Western League last season, Cotton Tierney and others who played in the same league, and several club owners and scouts assured the Rover bosses that they had landed one of the real Minor League prizes of the year, and a youngster whose batting, fielding, throwing and all-around baseball ability make him look like a future star.

"I NEVER heard a young ball player just coming out of the minors get so many boosts," said Treasurer Dreyfuss. "Every time we broached the subject of a deal to a big league club we were asked 'Will you include Stroner?' Not only half a dozen Major League clubs, but practically every club in the three Class AA Leagues would like to get him on any terms.

"Everybody who has seen Stroner in action says he just can't miss in the Majors, and that as a batter, fielder and thrower he will measure up to all requirements. Minor League men say that George Kelly is the only big league infielder whose throwing arm can be compared with that of our Wichita recruit."

LIKE his father, the younger Dreyfuss was greatly impressed by Stroner's appearance. He says that the youngster who will be groomed for the job of filling Traynor's shoes at third base is built along lines that suggest exceptional power, and that, taking into consideration what other baseball men say of him, and even making allowance for the usual difference between Major League and Minor League batting figures, "it will be a hard job to keep Stroner off the Pittsburgh club if he lives up to only part of his promise." Stroner was the sensation of the Western League this year in practically all branches of hitting and slugging. Two of his feats never accomplished by any other player were the knocking of a ball over the left field fence at Oklahoma City's park, and hitting over the right field wall at the Amarillo grounds. He made home runs over the fences of every park in the league.

Barney Dreyfuss

BOTH of the returned Pittsburgh club officials expressed satisfaction over the trade made by Manager Bush in exchanging Shortstop Glenn Wright for Pitcher Jess Petty and Infielder Harry Riconda, of the Robins. They say that Petty's appearance when they met him in New York last week indicated that he was taking the

MANUSH, GEHRIG MAKE STRONG BID FOR TITLE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

THREE great left-hand hitters—Leon Goslin of the Senators, Heinie Manush of the Browns and Lou Gehrig of the Yankees—staged a brilliant battle for the batting supremacy of the American League in this year's campaign. The three-cornered fight continued to the last week, Gehrig being eliminated first.

The duel between Goslin and Manush was not decided until the last day of the season, Goslin winning by a single point, according to the official figures of the circuit published today. The Washington star ended with a mark of .379, Manush finished with .378 and Gehrig compiled a mark of .374 for the year.

The achievements of Manush seem to stand out over Goslin's partly because Heinie played in 154 games while Goslin, suffering with a sore arm, could take part in only 135. The former connected for 241 hits, Goslin making 173 for the season. Among Manush's drives were 47 doubles, 20 triples and 13 homers.

RUTH BIGGEST THREAT

As usual, Babe Ruth was the biggest threat in the league. The Yank slugger fell six below his home-run record of 60 made during the previous season, but he was far ahead of any rival in the matter of runs scored. Bambino crossed the plate no less than 163 times, his activities in this direction also eclipsing the best run-getters of the National League. And in the important matter of driving in tallies, Babe wound up the season in a tie with Lou Gehrig for league honors. Each sent in 142 markers.

The leading baserunner of the junior circuit was Buddy Myer, Red Sox infielder who Saturday was traded to the Washington team. Myer had only to swipe 30 sacks to cop the honor, straightaway hitting being more in order in these days of the sport. Johnny Mostil of the White Sox was second with 23 and Harry Rice of the Tigers was third with 20.

The Yankees lead the league in club batting, although they had a very close rival in the Athletics. The team batting average of the World Champions was .296, that of the Mackians, .295.

Chillysauce

The annual banquet of the Pittsburgh chapter, Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials, Saturday night brought out nearly every member of the local organization, which, by the way, is growing. At these sessions the members talk with striking frankness of one thing and another, the result being

Tech Cage Star Is Declared Ineligible

The Carnegie floormen have suspended practice until December 27, when the cagers will resume preparation for the opening clash, with Waynesburg, in January.

Sports activities at Tech at present are at a standstill because of the influenza epidemic.

MENTORS TO STAY ON JOB

By JESS CARVER

ASIDE from Bob Reagen, line coach at Duquesne, the college coaching situation in the Pittsburgh district is at ease for the coming, and present, collegiate year.

Jock Sutherland and his flock of assistants will all return at Pitt. Dr. H. C. Carlson signed a two-year contract for basketball with the Panther folk a year ago and Frank Shea is to return as track coach in the spring. Pat Corr is still handling the swimming, and will continue to do so for another season.

Over at Tech, Bob Waddell, Judge Steffen, Al Irwin, Paul Allison and Dr. W. L. Marks will handle football in 1929. John Irwin is on deck as basketball coach and Guy Halferty will stick around as track and cross-country mentor.

Chick Davies and Elmer Layden are both assured for the future—Layden for five years and Chick for one. The Dukes will keep on fooling around with one-year contracts with Brother Davies and the first thing they know—they'll lose Chicken.

Duquesne very likely will make overtures to Reagan in an effort to induce Canonsburg Bob to stick around for another year or so. Layden liked the work of his former teammate, for Robert Patrick showed results with the Bluff line.

Ted Rosenzweig, Jap Douds, McMullen, of Nebraska; Aschman, Dreshar, Lewis, Vacheresse, Harpster, Berkman, Sloan and Howell were named on the University of Pittsburgh's all-opponent eleven for the past season. Tech and Nebraska each placed three men, Wash-Jeff and West Virginia two and Thiel one.

Stan Berkman has been named by every team that played against him on their all-opponent team.

It was fitting reward to the consistent and valuable services rendered throughout their four years of service at Carnegie Tech that Tony Sweet and Cy Letzelter were afforded the opportunity to make the trip to the coast as members of the Eastern all-star eleven. Tony and Cy were named when Les Barrabee and Ken Strong, of New York University, were refused permission to make the jaunt after they had been selected by Andy Kerr as members of the team.

It was too bad that Honey Guarino, Pitt's fine end, could not be included on the squad. Honey was a star all the time he was at Pitt. He was rated highly by every team that played against him.

FROTH . . .

Wash-Jeff is having trouble electing a football captain . . . the boys can't give any of the candidates a two-thirds majority . . . twenty-four votes for Underwood . . . the flu saved Dartmouth from another licking Saturday night . . . maybe . . . wonder if they'll ever restore college baseball in this district . . . it's a good sport, even if it don't make much dough . . . Waynesburg College is the first Tri-State Conference school to take up wrestling . . . though the Dukes have been wrestling with the problem of booking Pitt and Tech for a long while . . . so Monk Ketchel is an amateur, is he? . . . there is still hope for One-Eyed Connelly . . . Julius (C. O. D.) Levin says he'll take the flu if it's free . . . Mike, if you wait till spring, you'll have to buy me a straw hat . . . Pitt won't have an undefeated basketball season this year . . . unless these early games are counted out . . . otherwise, Pitt will be . . . that didn't sound so good . . . do they have basketball banquets at Sharon? . . . Oi, what a mess . . . Jim Marks, the sage of Elder Ridge, is planning to write a letter soon . . . let's hope it is to this department . . . hold everything.

PITT BATTLES OHIO STATE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17.—The University of Pittsburgh varsity basketball team arrived here this morning for the final game of its 1928 invasion of the Middle West. The Panthers will clash with Ohio State here tonight.

Pitt has dropped all three of its games played on this jaunt, Butler College took the measure of the Blue and Gold Thursday, Northwestern downed the Pittsburghers Friday and Wisconsin scored a 31-24 triumph Saturday at Madison. The Panthers are hoping to end their losing streak at the expense of the Buckeyes tonight.

Last year Pitt won four out of four played in the Midwest.

Titterton Is Crowned Senior 10-Mile Champ

Titterton captured the title after a thrilling race at McCombs Dam Park yesterday, covering the distance in 55 minutes, 49 4-5 seconds. Franklin T. Osgood, former Dartmouth star and now of the New York A. C., was second; Arthur Gavrin, New York University, third; Willie Kyronen, Finnish-American A. C., fourth, and Jimmy Henigan, of Dorchester, Mass., fifth.

Harry Hinkel successfully defended his Metropolitan A. A. U. championship in the seven-mile walk.

Eastern Stars Modest; "Best Ever"—Kerr

Howard Harpster

(Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

ABOARD THE OVERLAND LIMITED—The all-Eastern squad of 21 players, headed by Coaches Andy Kerr, of W. & J., and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, left Chicago at 8:30 p. m., Saturday, and continued on its way toward the West. Holmes, the Northwestern fullback, is the only player missing from the squad, and he is to report later in the week at San Francisco. To date, we have experienced very fine weather and the players, enjoying the trip, all are in the best of spirits.

HARPSTER

Next to our private Pullman is a private club car where the members of the squad spend much of their time. A victrola is aboard and the hours are passed by listening to music, reading, playing cards and looking at the scenery.

Speaking of scenery, Raskowski, the big Ohio State captain, yelled down the car to Blue Howell, captain of the Nebraska team, and said:

"Hey, Blue, haven't they got anything in Nebraska except corn and mud?"

Howell replied:

"There's been talk going around that we have some pretty good football teams."

Blue is right, too. The 1928 Nebraska team was one of the best in the land.

PLAYERS ARE MODEST

The all-East squad held a get-together meeting at the Palmer House in Chicago when all had reported Saturday morning. Coach Andy Kerr discussed the plans in a general way with the players and, following this, the boys stood around in groups, laughing and talking about games in which they had met each other as opponents. Many stories were passed around about these games and, although only a few weeks ago these struggles were to decide such things as conference championships now they were being joked about and the losers were having

The roster of the loop, which gets under way on Christmas Eve in Duquesne Garden, now includes Carnegie Tech, De Molay Alumni, Duquesne Gardens, Shady Side Academy, Blawnox and the Yellow Jackets.

Jimmy Manners, Terry McGovern, Paddy Sullivan and Happy Saunders will be several of the more familiar skaters on Schooley's sextet.

President Bruce Lafferty announced yesterday that all was ready for the opening encounter.

BUCS TO SELL PITCHER

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—One good right-handed pitcher, probably Walter Tauscher or Lee Roy Mahaffey, will come to the Dallas club of the Texas League next year from Pittsburgh, Bob Tarleton, business manager of the club, announced today.

Tarleton said he had obtained a definite promise from the heads of the Pirate team that one or the other of these pitchers would work for the Steers next spring.

RUNNER-UP

A careful check of the official batting averages of the American League, released for publication today, was necessary to decide whether Heine Manush or Goose Goslin was the champion for the 1928 season. Goslin won out by one percentage point.

THIRD

Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, Babe Ruth's only rival in the home run hitting line, fought tooth and nail with Goslin and Manush for the American League batting championship only to be nosed out during the last week of play. He finished third.

BUCS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Odie Cleghorn's Pirate eaters arrived in town last night in time to tie in the Ranger-Detroit game at the Garden. They came here from Ottawa, where on Saturday night they held the Ottawa Senators to a scoreless tie. The visitors are booked to pla the Americans here tomorrow night.

NEW FOE FOR TECH

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Carnegie Tech will be the first major football team to play in the new stadium of Washington University here next fall, it was announced last night by Dr. Frank Ewerhardt, athletic council chairman. The game is scheduled for November 2. Carnegie Tech is a newcomer on the Washington University schedule.

MR. BASEBALL FAN A WRONG GUY IN COURT

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

BETTER watch your step and your p's and q's when you go to a baseball game, Mr. Fan. You don't have many rights there in the eyes of the law, judging from an interesting review of two court cases by Hiram Shock, local attorney, in a recent issue of the Pittsburgh Legal Bulletin, which has just come to this desk.

Be careful of what you yell to the noble ath-a-letes on the diamond, and don't forget to duck or reach out and grab for the ball when a foul comes whizzing in your direction, or you may be sorry for your lack of discretion in the first instance and lack of caution in the second.

The first case cited by Shock has to do with a suit for $20,000 instituted by a fan against the Atlanta club of the Southern Association for injuries received when he alleges he was attacked by Pitcher Hollis McLaughlin, who objected to the cries of "Take 'im out!" when McLaughlin was not faring very well out there on the hurling knoll and clambered into the grandstand and singled out the plaintiff and socked him fore and aft for what in the suit is referred to as "ragging" him.

The Atlanta club offered a general demurrer when the case came up in the lower court, but was overruled, so it carried the case into the Georgia Court of Appeals, where the lower court's ruling was overruled, the decision being that the club was in no wise responsible for the overt act of its employe who was provoked to committing the assault. In its opinion, the court said:

"The conduct of McLaughlin, the pitcher, in leaving his place upon the grounds and coming into the grandstand and assaulting the plaintiff was not within the scope of his employment, nor in the prosecution of his master's business, but was his own personal affair in resenting a real or fancied insult. 'If a servant steps aside from his master's business for however short time, to do an act entirely disconnected with it, and injury results to another from such independent voluntary act, the servant may be liable, but the master is not liable: Savannah Electric Co. v Hodges, 6 Ga. App. 470.' Under the circumstances described in the petition, McLaughlin's acts were not the acts of his master and the latter cannot be held liable under the doctrine of respondent superior or the master and servant theory. Is the defendant liable for a breach of duty to the plaintiff as an invitee? The proprietor of an amusement park is not an insurer of the safety of his patrons, but must use ordinary care to protect them from injury."

The court quotes here Sec. 4420 of the Civil Code of Georgia, which relates to parks for public entertainment and which says: "Where the owner or occupier of land, by express or implied invitation, induces or leads others to come upon his premises for any lawful purpose he is liable to such persons in keeping the premises and approaches safe."

Continuing on the question of the care to be expected from such proprietor, the appellate court said: "Undoubtedly the defendant owed to the plaintiff the general duty of exercising ordinary care for his safety, but the petition wholly fails to show any breach of that duty. There is nothing to indicate that the assault, or anything of such character, could or should have been foreseen or anticipated by the defendant; but the attack appears to have been the result of a sudden outburst of temper on the part of McLaughlin quite unusual with players in general and one which does not appear to have been of the habit or disposition of McLaughlin in particular, either within or without the knowledge of the defendant. If the defendant had had any good reason to apprehend that such a thing would probably happen, then it should have exercised reasonable care to prevent the occurrence; but it was not required to anticipate the improbable, nor to take measures to prevent a happening which no reasonable person could have expected. The assault of which the plaintiff complains appears to have been a happening of that character. Under the facts appearing, the plaintiff's case is not stronger than if he had been assaulted by some other spectator or invitee upon the defendant's premises. The petition discloses no breach of duty on the part of the defendant, and hence fails to show any negligence."

The question of liability of a club for injuries suffered when a spectator is struck by a batted or thrown ball was decided negatively in the case of a Mrs. Wells vs. the Minneapolis Club, of the American Association. During a game in Minneapolis, Mrs. Wells was seated in the grandstand along the front of which for a distance of about 65 feet was the usual screen. While watching the game she was struck by a foul ball, resulting in the fracture of the collar bone. In the statement of her case she said: "The defendant did not place or maintain a screen or netting for the purpose aforesaid (of protecting spectators), but defendant negligently constructed said screen or netting of an insufficient size to provide such protection; that the plaintiff saw said screen and was ignorant of the fact that a batted ball might pass the same and hit the spectator in said grandstand."

It was declared by the baseball management, in answer, that there was no negligence on its part, that the injury was accidental, that the plaintiff was injured through her own negligence and that she assumed the risk of injury from flying balls. The jury gave the plaintiff a verdict in the sum of $825, but this verdict was reversed by the Supreme Court of Minnesota and the case sent back for a new trial.

The appellate court held that the evidence as to plaintiff's position in the grandstand and as to her own proper care for her safety was not clear. Mrs. Wells declared at the trial that she was sitting about 10 feet from the front of the stand, but her testimony was not clear as to whether she was behind the screen or in a seat beyond the end of the screen. The lower court left the jury to determine plaintiff's right to recover, either upon her own claim that she was within the screen, or upon the defendant's claim that she was outside the screen when she was struck. Upon her theory, the defendant contended that, if she sat behind the screen, the ball, which certainly did not go through it, must have made an astonishing curve at a direct angle around the end of the screen and then curved again and gone up toward the plaintiff; and defendant contended that such a course of a ball was so unheard of that under the circumstances they could not be held to have been negligent. They could not have expected a foul ball to take such an erratic course. On this point the Supreme Court said:

"We are all agreed that if plaintiff occupied the place that she and her companion testify to the defendant had performed its full duty for her protection and there is no liability for the injury. It is inconceivable that a baseball, when fouled by a batter, could curve around the end of the screen in the manner this ball is said by her to have curved and reach her. No one claims that it glanced from striking any post or object after the time it touched the bat and before it struck plaintiff."

As to the fact that the screen did not extend along the entire front of the grandstand, the Supreme Court said: "The defendant was not an insurer against all perils, nor was it guilty of negligence in failing to guard against improbable danger. * * *. Baseball is not free from danger to those witnessing the game. But the perils are not so imminent that due care on the part of the management requires all the spectators to be screened in. In fact, a large part of those who attend prefer to sit where no screen obscures the view. The defendant has a right to cater to their desires. We believe that all who, with full knowledge of the danger from thrown or batted balls, attend a baseball game, the management cannot be held negligent when it provides a choice between a screened-in and an open seat, the screen being reasonably sufficient as to extent and substance."

NOW that you know where you stand in court, in the matter of being the victim of a player's wrath or a misdirected baseball during the heat of action, Mr. and Mrs. Fan, you'll know how to conduct yourself. When you pay for your ticket at the box office it becomes a matter of every man and woman for him or herself—and let the casualties fall where they may.

I never have met a more congenial nor a finer group of fellows. This squad is supposed to be a selected group of the stars of the East and Middle West, but, to hear the fellows refer to themselves, you wouldn't know that there was a football star on the squad. Each player is ready to concede his neighbor the edge when it comes to ability, and I believe this quality in the East team will go a long way toward helping to develop team play and producing a team that will click.

Tony Sweet and Cy Letzelter were the two boys to replace Ken Strong and Les Barabee on the Eastern squad and I am mighty glad to see them on the team. I have played with both for the past four years at Carnegie Tech and I know what they can do. They are good news for any man's football team.

PRACTICE PLEASING

Following a luncheon which the Chicago Shriners gave in honor of the team, the squad was taken to Northwestern University, where each player was equipped and the initial practice was held.

Setting-up exercises, passing, kicking, running and a light signal drill in which the plays were given out was the menu for the day. Coaches Kerr and Hanley were in charge and both expressed great satisfaction with the results of the workout.

When I asked Coach Kerr how he felt about the team, he replied, "This year's squad at the end of the first practice is just about three jumps ahead of what last year's team was at the same time. And, although we haven't as many colorful stars as we had last season, I feel certain that the present group of players is going to give us the team play that will make us a better team than any other that has yet represented the East."

CORINTHIANS TOP E. PITTSBURGH MAGYARS, 8-1

By TOM BIRKS

TWO of the leading games in the American Soccer League were postponed yesterday, German Sport Club calling off its game with Heidelberg at the latter's grounds and Dunlevy requesting a postponement of a game with Westinghouse, both managements having trouble trying to get a representative eleven on the field. The "Flu" epidemic prevented them, it was said, and one game was played in the league, the Corinthians swamping the East Pittsburgh Magyards, 8 to 1, at the Curry grounds.

The meeting of the two strongest teams in the Chartiers Valley League, the Bridgeville Owls and Glendale, drew a capacity crowd and Bridgeville put the game in the bag in the second half when Mangus and Oblock scored goals.

It was a great game, with the defenses predominating. Aston and Gardner played a whale of a game for the Owls, while Start and Zeller put in some great breaking up methods in the first half.

The first score came in the second half when Mangus found himself with the ball 20 yards from the goal, and his parting shot beat Stock completely.

Glendale fought back hard and tried to get the equalizer, but could not break through the Owls defense. After 15 minutes of play, Oblock fastened on the ball after a series of shots, and banged it into the net for the second goal.

CUP COMMITTEE MEETS

There will be a meeting of the National Amature Cup Committee in Cleveland tonight to make the draw for the second round of the national amateur cup. The committee is composed of Harry Fairfield from West Penn, J. McEwan and Bill Angus from the Ohio State body.

Much interest follows the meeting, seeing the Corinthians have protested the game with Clan Douglas. The game was played in the first round and won by Douglas, but Manager Warner McKay, of the Corinthians, seems to have unearthed the fact that Bill Marshall, of the Douglas team, is a professional and McKay has possession of a contract. It appears that Manager Masterton, of Douglas, was unaware of the status of Marshall, who played with the Internationals last season here.

And if Marshall is declared a professional and the protest filed in accord with the rules, then the Corinthians will have won a protest.

Pittsburghers following the fortunes of Heidelberg will be interested in the draw, and with some good teams still left in this district, it is going to be worth while before we are called upon to meet out-of-town teams. The lineup:

Bridgeville—2.		Glendale—0.
Delzullo	G	Storki
Kalich	R B	Stark
Gartner	L B	Ginski
Ensigner	R H	Warrick
Mangus	C H	Zeler
Oblock	L H	Kahlmyer
Kowak	O R	Klutic
Mazus	I R	Castti
Ginger	C	Kaber
Oblock	I L	McClyment
Barnhart	O L	Joly

Goal scores—Mangus, Oblock. Time of periods—Two 45 minutes. Referee—Hart.

CUE TOURNEY HERE IS PLANNED

More than 2,000 players are expected to participate in a pocket billiard elimination tournament tentatively scheduled to start here shortly after Christmas. Six rooms that signed yesterday at a meeting in the Ellis room, Diamond street, form the nucleus of the association that will sponsor the affair. The applications of several other rooms for franchises were taken under advisement. The rooms enrolled so far are the Palace, Dormont; Herman's, Sixth street; Ellis', Kalmer's, Oakland; the Arcade, Swissvale, and Dimling's, Smithfield street.

As explained by Max Grossman, traveling secretary of the National Billiard Association, under auspices of which the tournament will be held, the sole object is to increase interest in pocket billiards, to hold a contest in which all classes of players can compete. Thus each of the three-man teams, which will first figure in room and district tournaments, will be composed of one Class A, one Class B and one Class C, or novice, player. The tournament will culminate in a round robin in which the best team in the city will be chosen, inter-city matches to follow. Trophies will be awarded to the winners.

The plan, according to Grossman, has had marked success in many other cities, Joe Moncannon, nationally-known pocket billiard star, will come to Pittsburgh to act as instructor and general arbiter during the early stages of the tourney.

PROVIDENCE IS GRID CHAMP

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The ninth season of the National Football League closed yesterday with the 7-to-6 victory of the New York Yankees over the New York Giants, Providence winning the title held during the year by the Giants.

The 1928 season was the most successful in the history of the league, President Joe Carr stated, and all attendance records were broken, averaging 10,000 spectators at each game.

Providence won eight games, tied two and lost one for an average of .888, close to the league record. The Frankford Yellow Jackets made a great race of it and finished second. The final standings:

Detroiters Made Killing; What Motor Men Are Doing

—By B. C. FORBES—

DETROIT, Dec. 15.

THE Detroiter who swings larger blocks of stocks than any other citizen—and that is saying a lot—is still bullish. But he doesn't look for renewal of the upward movement until after the new year. He rather fears that the Wall Street money market will be subjected to fresh strains this month and perhaps in the first few days of January.

The recent sudden relapse did not take him by surprise. He had reached the conclusion just before the break came that the market had become tired and was ready to show signs of fatigue.

Irregularity, he feels, will be stopped by stiffening money rates, is what he looks for this month.

But shortly after the new year he looks for a splendid recovery in the most promising stocks.

STOCK speculation has taken hold of Detroit as never before. Many have made extraordinarily well, because, naturally, Detroiters have favored motor and motor equipment stocks. Some of the advances have yielded fortunes. Look at these gains, for example:

	Year's Week-end
	1927	1928	Gain
Auburn Auto	85	155	70
Budd Mfg.	13	33	20
Briggs Mfg.	21	45	24
Chandler Cleve.	20	38	18
Checker Cab	17	35	18
Chrysler	50	115	65
El Auto Lie	66	119	53
Ford of Can.	310	610	300
Gen. Motors	77	146	69
Graham Page	17	45	28
Hupp Motors	29	53	24
Indian Motor	20	36	16
Motor Prods.	94	172	78
Motor Wheel	40	84	44
Murray Body	21	64	43
Packard	98	149	51
Smith (A. O.)	78	129	51
Studebaker	57	72	15
Stutz	14	34	20

I hear, however, that many smaller speculators have been wiped out.

EVERY motor manufacturer I have met is looking forward confidently to 1929, following in most instances, record-breaking results during the current year.

The Fishers, who are extremely important interests in General Motors, are very optimistic over the outlook for the various car manufacturing divisions. Lawrence P. Fisher, president of the Cadillac and LaSalle companies, after describing the gains made this year by General Motors plants, said he expected even bigger achievements all along the line next year. The new six-cylinder Chevrolet has proved an instantaneous success at one end of the price range, while Cadillac LaSalle is prospering at the other end of the range.

ALVAN MACAULEY, president of Packard, is making important additions to his productive facilities in an effort to catch up with the greatest avalanche of orders this company has ever enjoyed. Detroit is quite as optimistic as Wall Street over Packard's prospects.

Important developments are pending in Chrysler activities, covering both passenger cars and trucks. Details, however, will not be announced until the opening of the year. Walter P. Chrysler is figuring upon greatly increasing his share of the business in 1929.

C. W. MATHEWSON, who after five years, is again at the sales helm of Dodge Brothers, told me: "We have been hearing a lot about public interest in style. That is true; but the manufacturer who thinks the buying public does not understand engineering trends and manufacturing methods will find his product in a declining market. I have returned to Dodge Brothers after eight months devoted to the introduction of the DeSoto Six. In both cases—the one a new car the other a car of nearly 15 years standing—I find success based on recognition of engineering leadership, on comprehension of manufacturing skill and processes, on ultimate dollar value."

Things are humming at the Ford works. The payroll, which has already passed all earlier high water marks, will, it is said, rise still further as production advances towards the goal aimed at.

Graham Paige have been spending several millions on plant expansion and have increased their dealer organization from 350 last year to over 2,000.

NOTWITHSTANDING all this it is a rather curious fact that merchants report Christmas retail trade as disappointing thus far.

STOCK MARKET SAGS UNDER PRESSURE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Fears of another credit stringency over the year-end had a restraining effect on trading in today's stock market, which moved irregularly lower. A few rails and specialties were marked up 3 to nearly 24 points on poor buying, but the general list was under selling pressure most of the day, several of the extreme declines ranging from 4 to nearly 10 points.

Call money renewed at 7 and dropped to 6, but the ease in rates is expected in banking circles to continue only a day or two longer with a strong likelihood of another flurry to 12 or 15 per cent, possibly higher, before the end of the year. Time money and commercial paper rates continued firm. With the bulk of brokers' loans now made for the "account of others," Wall street fears that the heavy withdrawal of these funds for year-end readjustments might temporarily impair the volume of credit available.

So-called "tax selling" between now and the end of the year is another factor to be taken into consideration, but funds thus obtained are expected to come back into the market after the turn of the year. Wall street also is counting on an unusually heavy reinvestment demand early next month, but much of this is likely to be absorbed by new bond and stock offerings.

Except for the gathering of war clouds in South America, there was little in the week-end news to influence the price movement.

National Bellas Hess common was the spectacular individual feature, soaring 23¼ points to a new high record at 182, while the preferred moved up 5 points to a new high at 116. Western Pacific common and preferred also were in brisk demand, the former touching a new high at 38.

Violent fluctuations continued in the high priced specialties. Radio, Wright Aeronautical, International Nickel, Packard Motors, A. M. Byers, Du Pont and Curtiss Aeroplane fell 5 to nearly 10 points, but good recoveries were made in a few cases. International Telephone, Western Union and Greene Cananeа Copper sold down 4 points, or more, and a long list of others reacted 1 to 3 points below Saturday's final quotations.

MIELE PASSERS SEEK FIRST VICTORY

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Not disheartened over their failure to win a game during the first week of the Allegheny County League schedule, the Miele-Franchinas, who were defeated twice last week, losing to Reliance Life and the Goldensons, will be out tonight determined to score their first victory when they meet Duquesne Light at Columbus Temple in one of the two league contests on the schedule. In the other game the champion Duquesne Lafayettes clash with Reliance Life at Duquesne High School.

The Miele-Franchinas have shown a big improvement in their team play and this is expected to serve them in good stead when they meet the Light passers tonight. Having conquered the Rauhs on the same floor last Thursday night the Light passers are confident they can hand the Miele-Franchinas a similar defeat tonight. The teams appear to be evenly matched and the fans are predicting a close battle.

Out in Duquesne the Lafayettes are likely to find Reliance Life a tough assignment. Reliance showed real form in their victory over the Rauh passers and if they display the same class tonight the Lafayettes are going to find themselves in a gruelling battle.

ROSTERS ANNOUNCED

With the closing date for enrolling new players set for next Saturday, County League clubs are busily engaged signing stars to bolster their lineups. The Duquesne Lafayettes have signed Joe Dostar and he will be eligible to play against the Rauhs Thursday night, the Rauhs have obtained Don Desmaria and W. Marley, who will be eligible to play against the Mieles a week from Thursday, while Duquesne Light has added George Sullivan, who will make his league debut against the Goldensons next Saturday night. The complete rosters follow:

DRIBBLETS

Two college teams will appear at Community House during the next two weeks for games with the A. A. U. champions. Next Saturday night Manager Woods' titleholders will meet Ken Loeffler's crack Geneva College stars, while the week following Westminster College is the attraction on the North Siders' floor, Loeffler's Kickers appearing at Forresters Hall tomorrow night.

The Jeannette Felders have a chance to take undisputed possession of first place in the I. & O. League tonight when they meet Immaculate Heart at Jeannette. In the other league game carded tonight the Mangans act as hosts to the McKeesport Alumni Club at the South Side Market House.

Freddy Iverson, prominent McKeesport promoter, is making an effort to enter a team in the P. & O. League, to take the place left open by the withdrawal of Broadway. Iverson is the sponsor of the McKeesport Olympics. If he obtains a franchise McKeesport will have two representatives in the league, the Alumni Club and the Olympics.

The Duquesne-Lafayette strength-record first held on first place in the county league standings by defeating Duquesne Light, 23-17.

MOTOR BOAT MARK SET

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The world record for outboard motorboat Class C craft was broken here yesterday by Bonnie Lass, driven by Floyd Pierce, of Lake Elsinore, Cal. The boat covered the five-mile course at 38.58 miles an hour.

Bonnie Lass and Blue Streak II were the major competitors in the feature race of the two-day regatta conducted under auspices of the San Diego Power Boat Association and the San Diego Yacht Club.

In a race Saturday, the Bonnie Lass traveled 38.20 miles an hour, breaking the mark set a week ago at Lake Elsinore by Blue Streak II.

Bonnie Lass took the lead in yesterday's race. H. C. Ferguson, of Lake Elsinore, pilot of the Blue Streak II, gradually crept up on the leader and as they swept into the stretch, it appeared as though he might overtake the Bonnie Lass. Pierce crept close to the winning buoy, however, while Ferguson swept wide under a terrific drive, the Bonnie Lass winning by seven yards.

FORMER CADDIE WINS

MANILA, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Larry Montes, 18-year-old former golf caddie won the Philippine national open championship yesterday with a low score of 278. It was the first time Filipino had won the title. His score was the lowest ever played in an open meet here.

BILLIARD TITLE EVENTS OPEN TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Baited with the largest cash prize lists ever offered, the world's three-cushion and pocket billiard championships go on the block at Orchestra hall tonight.

Eight of the greatest cue pushers in the world, most of them former champions or champions, are entered in the tournaments, which, for the first time, are to be conducted simultaneously and under one roof. Four men compete in each tournament and each tournament will consist of a round robin. Each player will meet the other three.

In the peninsular pocket billiard matches, Erwin Rudolph, Chicago, will play Frank Taberski, Schenectady, and Ralph Greenleaf, New York, present champion, meets Pasquale Natalie, Baltimore.

In the three-cushion matches, Willie Hoppe, New York, meets Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, and Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo., present titleholder, matches cue artistry with the veteran Gus Copulos, Detroit.

The winner of each tournament will receive $2,500 in cash, a salary of $6,000 for a year, custody of the diamond medal emblematic of the championship, and 40 per cent of half of the gate receipts. Each runner-up gets $1,250 in cash, a salary of $3,000 for a year and 20 per cent of half of the gate receipts. Third wins $900 and fourth gets $350, with a small cut of the gate receipts. Under a newly adopted rule by the National Billiard Association, which is conducting the championships affairs, the championships will not be subject to challenge. Formerly, a champion was forced to defend his title every 60 days when properly challenged or lose his crown.

FORMER CHAMPS MEET

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Two former world's champions at 18.2 balkline billiards, Jake Schaefer and Welker Cochran, will start today on a 4,800 point match for the right to challenge Edouard Horemans, present holder of the title. Two blocks of 400 points each will be played here every night this week. Schaefer won the crown from Cochran last year, only to lose it to Horemans a short time later.

best of care of himself, and they are confident that he will be a winning pitcher for the Pirates from the start.

The Buc management has considerable faith in Riconda, and believes that his low batting average of .224 with Brooklyn this year is not to be taken as a true indication of his hitting ability. It develops that the Pittsburgh club tried to get him a year ago, but did not need an infielder so badly at the time as to outbid the Brooklyn club, which paid $40,000 and a player to Milwaukee for his services.

LARRY FRENCH, purchased from Portland for cash, Infielder Mack Hillis and a pitcher to be selected in the spring, was not the only left-hand pitcher sought by the Pittsburgh club in addition to Jess Petty.

Pittsburgh and two or three other Major League clubs at first refused to waive on Southpaw Ernest Wingard, just released by the Athletics with Outfielder DeWitt LeBourbeaux to Milwaukee, but Connie Mack, far from being willing to let Wingard go at the waiver price, withdrew his request and put such a prohibitive price on the hurler that all clubs then consented to pass him up. President Dreyfuss says the Pittsburgh club has another deal on that may go through soon. It involves a Minor League player.

WITH the official averages of the American League, issued today, showing that Goose Goslin, of the Senators, is the champion batsman of the loop for 1928, attention is attracted again to the regularity with which outfielders win the hitting laurels in the junior circuit. George Sisler, now with the Boston Nationals, was the only player other than an outfielder to lead the American League in swatting in the last 23 years, or since Larry Lajoie carried off the honors in 1903, 1904 and 1905. Sisler led in 1920 and 1922, but in all of the 21 other seasons in the last 23 the champions were outfielders—George Stone, Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Harry Heilmann, Babe Ruth, Heinie Manush and Goslin.

George Sisler

THE results of the batting races in the National League during the same period have been in striking contrast to those in the American, as in the senior league the batting championship has gone to to an outfielder only five times in the last 23 years, whereas infielders have captured it 17 times and a catcher once.

The winning outfielders were Sherwood Magee, Eddie Roush (twice), Zack Wheat and Paul Waner. The other winners during the 23-year period were Honus Wagner (five times), Rogers Hornsby (seven times), Jake Daubert (twice), Heinie Zimmerman, Larry Doyle, Hal Chase and Bubbles Hargrave.

THE close finish in the American League batting race, with victory going by only one point to Gosin—remembered by Pittsburgh fans as the slugger fanned by Red Oldham for the final out in the sensational ending of the 1925 world series—recalls the struggle of 1910. On that occasion also the official averages were required to determine whether Ty Cobb or Larry Lajoie had won out.

Unofficial figures had given Lajoie the leadership following the crediting of a number of suspicious-looking bunt hits in the final two games in St. Louis—Third Baseman Frank Corridon was called on the carpet by League President Ban Johnson to explain his failure to field some of those hits—but the official averages put Cobb on top by one point.

IN THE betting on the outcome of the world championship three-cushion billiard tournament ushered in at Chicago today as a running mate of the tourney for the world pocket billiard title, Gus Copulos and Otto Reiselt, both of whom formerly represented Pittsburgh in the National League, are on even terms as the outside choice. Willie Hoppe is favorite at 5 to 6, Johnny Layton is second choice at evens, and Copulos and Reiselt are quoted at 3 to 1. In the pocket billiard competition, Ralph Greenleaf is favorite at evens, with Rudolph second choice at 8 to 5, Frank Taberski third at 3 to 1, and Pasquale Natalie fourth at 12 to 1.

Gus Copulos

JOHNNY LAYTON, present three-cushion champion, first won the title in 1919 and won it again in 1921 and 1922. The late Bob Cannefax held it in 1920, 1924 and 1925, Tiff Denton was the winner in 1923 and Augie Kickhefer in 1926, Kickhefer losing the honors later to Otto Reiselt in a challenge match.

Greenleaf has been the recognized king of pocket billiard players for several years, barring one period during which Taberski held the title. In the last tournament Greenleaf retained his place at the head of the list by finishing first with eight victories and one defeat and a total of 1,082 balls made. Taberski and Rudolph each won seven out of nine games in that tourney.

The Pittsburgh chapter members do not need to bow to any of their contemporaries in the matters of efficiency, as is being proved with more force each year. The presence at the banquet of the retiring president, Attorney John P. Eagan, was a source of deep gratification to the others present. John has almost recovered from his prolonged illness.

This annual affair generally brings out Dr. Charles R. Quailey's positive opinion that Dexter Very, former State star, is the best end that ever performed in Pittsburgh, or any other city, so far as Quailey is concerned. Dexter was elected president of the local chapter. Very had some interesting sidelights to offer after another exciting season, his duties as an official carrying him to all points of the compass. Dexter was much enthused over the recent Georgetown-University of Detroit game in Detroit wherein he officiated.

"There was some fine sportsmanship displayed in that scrap," said Very. "You could easily feel that each team was going out there to win, but the warm rivals played clean football all the way. Detroit was trailing at the half, but they certainly opened up with some rare stuff in that second half."

The fact that seven other managers in the National League allowed Flint Rhem to be waived out of the league by the Cardinals seems to indicate one of two things. The pilots either are loathe to give their attention to a very promising pitcher who has broken training rules, or the Redbird management was able to talk the rival leaders out of a desire to acquire this big pitcher.

Rhem is not as tough as a lot of fellows who have starred under McGraw, Clarke, Chance and other leaders. Moreover, Flint has more stuff than 75 per cent of the pitchers in the league. He has lots of speed and a dandy hook. What he needs is proper handling; a boy of 26 should get the more consideration from his superiors.

The waiver rule, however, is a big ridiculous joke. There was a time when a claimed player meant that the club asking the waiver could not recall the request. But now the misnamed procedure is used as a "feeler." And it would seem as if the magnates were taking advantage of its laxity to get together on matters that do not aid the players in any big degree.

The big leagues also have a number of players who are not the equal of Pete Scott, Pirate utility player who has just been sold to the Mission club. A fast boy with a punch at the plate, Pete was not a star fielder, but his other assets were marked. He would add strength to every second-division club in the league and some in the upper tier. But, perhaps, Scott is well satisfied to play in his home state.

Probe Is Disappointing, But Jury Did Its Best

Naming of 49 persons recommended for indictment, the second presentment of the September grand jury is disappointing in that, while it involves a few police officials and petty politicians, it does not contain the names of "higher ups."

District Attorney Gardner states that at a certain point of the investigation there was met "a stone wall which was impossible to batter down." Retail dealers readily named the ones who supplied "administration booze," but the wholesale dispensers remained silent as to whom their superiors might be.

As far as the investigation itself is concerned, the grand jurors have issued a statement that they were given every official assistance; that there was ready response to a request for following up any lead developed. The jury evidently did the best it could.

John J. Verona, who made sensational charges about graft in the police department prior to summoning the grand jury, is said to have rendered it no assistance whatever.

Verona is still the wily politician.

While lauding the honest policeman who is conscientious and willing to do his duty, the presentment states that the faithful officer is hampered by the system under which he works, a system "whereby politics enter into the functioning of the police department."

In effect, the presentment is an amazing revelation of the shameful surrender of a portion of the police department and of the police courts to the forces of the underworld, to the extent of entering into partnership with bootleggers and other law-breakers. The magistracy is accused of abetting crime in imposing fines in cases which should be held for court, a proceeding in which the fine later would be returned to a person standing "right" under the vicious system prevailing.

While the presentment is not as revealing as the public would wish relative to the real authority behind the breakdown of our police department, it provides a basis for trials that may develop extensively. Certainty of jail is a great thing to soften the stubbornness of one facing such punishment. So it is possible that those who would not talk in the grand jury room may do so later.

Wright Brothers Merit Honor and Immortality

Twenty-five years ago the Wright brothers, young American inventors, flew in a heavier-than-air machine.

It was a short flight in a clumsy, primitive plane. But the thing had never before been done in the history of the world.

And on that day the Wright brothers inaugurated a new era in the history of the human race.

Men had dreamed of flying. They had talked and written so much about it that they almost believed it was true. All religions had described flights of various kinds, flying angels.

After the death of Alexander, Oriental descriptions of his achievement showed him flying through the clouds and going down into the depths of the sea. Thus human imagination foresaw human achievement.

Writers of antiquity, Virgil among them, described the flight of Daedalus from the realm of King Minos to safety, and the disastrous flight of his son, Icarus, who fell into the sea, when the sun melted his wings of wax.

But the thing had never been done until the Wright brothers did it.

And theirs is a glory that will last as long as language and the written word exist on earth.

The problem of human beings since the beginning has been one of MOTION. They have waged a long fight against the law of gravitation that keeps things in their places and once tied down each man, in his little corner of the earth.

Men walked and ran like the other animals, then rode on buffaloes, camels, horses and elephants. They made rude sleds and animals dragged them.

Then they invented the wheel, and with their families and household goods rumbled over the earth in heavy oxcarts.

While the mass labored or idled, a few THOUGHT and INVENTED.

The stage coach came, the locomotive, the automobile, and then the Wright brothers showed men that they could fly and a new era began in human life.

Distance is conquered. Men have flown across the North American continent between the rising of two suns. They have flown across the Atlantic Ocean and around the world.

All this they have done, THANKS TO AMERICAN INVENTIVE GENIUS.

Credit must be given to Langley, who built a plane that might have flown. But the Wright brothers ACTUALLY flew, and theirs is the glory, theirs the accomplishment, and theirs the honor and immortality.

Breathing Dusty Air Here No Worse Than Elsewhere

Experiments conducted at the Bureau of Mines show that during the recent foggy days Pittsburghers inhaled about ten times as much dust as usual.

While you naturally would feel better satisfied not to inhale any dust whatever, it is very difficult to realize such an ambition.

In order to secure air free from dust it is necessary to go at least 30 miles out to sea. Even then there is slight air contamination if you are aboard ship, the dust arising from the vessel itself.

There is consolation to the dust-breather of Pittsburgh in the result of experiments which show that the metallic particles making up the bulk of the Pittsburgh dust are not especially injurious to health.

Tales That Are Told

Cheaper

SANDY MACGREGOR had just arrived in America after a weary journey across the Atlantic.

As he walked off the ship he saw a man in a diving outfit climbing up from the harbor to the deck of a nearby boat.

"Mon! Mon!" he exclaimed. "I wish I had known about that sooner; I'd have walked across myself."

A SCOTSMAN'S love-letter:

"Darlin' Maggie, I worship the ground you walk on. I like to see you walk—it shows ye're thrifty an' savin'. The last time ye dyed yer dress it looked smarter than ever—next year it would look fine turned outside in. Yer hat's a picter—it's pretty enough to last a lifetime. There's naething I wadna dae for you, darlin'. If it wasnt for the expense of the funeral, I'd lay me down and die for ye.—Sandy."

Wanted—An Epidemic

THE doctor's little daughter took a lot of interest in her father's profession.

One day a lady friend called to see her mother, and in the course of conversation turned to the little girl and asked how she was and how her father was getting along.

"Oh, we aren't doing so badly," replied the little lady, with a new interest in the entertainment, "not so badly, all things considered. There's plenty of colds, some bronchitis, and a little fever here and there; but as daddie said yesterday morning, what we really want is a nice little epidemic."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

ANYBODY that don't know something that you pretend to know is a good subject for a joke. If a guy admits that he don't know who Shakespeare was, you've got a big laugh coming, even if you ain't quite sure yourself whether Shakespeare was a painter or a cousin to Mussolini.

There was an American tourist in France, and a guide was showing him around an old fort. The fort was still in use, but it had a lot of ancient stuff in it. The guide points out a brass cannon.

"Now this here gun," he says, "goes back to the Looeys."

"Yeah," the American says, "I should think they ought to get it back. It don't look like it would shoot."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I LEARNED to laugh at myself, and it's the greatest thing that ever happened to me.

It is like being let out of a cave and getting a glimpse of the free horizon for the first time in my life.

Of course, I always declared that I was one of those rare beings who do laugh at themselves—and really thought I was. But I realize now that I was mighty choosey about the laughter.

For instance, I was willing to tell a funny story about myself—but I wanted to pick the story. Just any old story wouldn't do. It had to be the smarty sort of a story that did me proud. And I wanted to tell it in my own way. Then I enjoyed it—

But, of course, I wasn't really laughing at myself at all. I was just hogging the spotlight and naturally enjoying it. When it came to actual life I took myself with deadly seriousness.

Everything that happened to me seemed to be of supreme importance. If I got mad I wanted the whole world to be mad with me.

If I was sad, I expected everyone to dissolve in tears.

I was everlastingly involving my friends in my affairs—

And pestering God with my troubles—

And it never occurred to me that my attitude was extremely silly.

Nor did I see that my perpetual unhappiness was largely due to the fact that I was fed up on myself.

Then gradually I changed.

Life forced me to observe other people and their affairs—

And slowly it dawned on me that I wasn't a Unique Performance.

There were millions of others just like me in the world—and everything that had happened to me had also happened to them.

As an individual, I was just another Homo Sap, not a particle more interesting than the other polywogs.

The only thing of importance in this world was—the Whole World—the Big Procession in which we all were involved.

And when the glory and magnitude of that procession dawned on me, I learned to laugh at myself at last.

I came to see how silly it was to take myself and my little experiences seriously. I, in myself, could never be mad enough or sad enough, good enough or bad enough, to matter a hoot. The only thing that mattered was whether I played my part in the big game—or didn't.

Which might seem to be a humiliating revelation—but it wasn't. It was the most blessed release that had ever come to me. It was like getting rid of a hang-nail—the hang-nail of Myself.

GILA MONSTERS

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE psychology of the automobile tourist is invoked by Prof. Charles T. Vorhies, of the University of Arizona, to explain the mysterious distribution of the ugly lizard called the Gila monster in parts of the Southwestern country, where it does not normally live and where naturalists believe it would never go voluntarily or without uninvited aid. The aid, Prof. Vorhies thinks, is afforded by automobile riders. Curiosity or cupidity is excited by the sight of the monsters seen somewhere along the roadside in the regions where they naturally lead their crawling lives, and they are captured and carried along until their captors find that they are unsalable, or get tired of them, and then they are dropped.

It seems, according to the observations of Prof. Vorhies, that this practice has become surprisingly common. He relates that he has been asked to pay $10 for a very ordinarily Gila monster and has been solemnly assured by the would-be seller that they were worth $100. He knows a dealer in wild animals who sells "Gilas" to tourists who want to "take them back home," and who may carry them hundreds of miles before the charm dissolves.

People dwelling in the suburbs of great cities, and knowing the craze of some automobile tourists for ravaging flower borders and breaking ornamental shrubs, will readily believe the statement that:

"The automobile tourist carries everything interesting from where he finds it to some other place; anything from a 'horned toad' to an entire cotton plant, leaves, bolls, boll weevils and all."

It is here that the vicious side of the practice begins to appear. Not only Gila monsters, but many other animals, some of which it is very desirable to keep at a distance, from cultivated fields, are transported by these jejune admirers to places where they are not wanted. The consequence is that both Arizona and California have "cordons of horticulatural inspectors stationed at strategic points for intercepting autos coming into the state.

Prof. Vorhies relates some singular instances of this strange traffic. "A few years ago," he says, in Science, "I was the recipient of a live five and one-half foot boa constrictor, picked up by an autoist, just beyond the border town of Nogales, Sonora. This, I should judge, came up from Central America nearby to the United States by train, thence it certainly came another 70 miles by auto. Mr. Roy McCain relates that while hunting a few miles northwest of Pantana, a station about 30 miles east of Tucson in the foothills of the Rincon Mountains, he met a large lizard which he killed with a stick. It measured three feet in length and must have been an Iguana. This was in October, 1927."

Other observers besides Prof. Vorhies and the official inspectors have lately reported similar cases of the transportation of animals and plants to great distances from their native haunts. Gila monsters have been carried as far as Texas, and there released, and jungle reptiles from Central America have been brought across the Rio Grande, exciting much astonishment among those who have found them wandering in the almost treeless plains of Texas.

While travelers by train sometimes indulge in this kind of transportation, the automobile affords the ideal conditions for it; first, because the autoist is brought into relatively close contact with the animals and plants of the regions he traverses, and, second, because of the privacy of the automobile as a carrier.

Bible Passages

Wisdom

(Proverbs 8: 1-14.)

DOTH not wisdom cry? and understanding put forth her voice?

She standeth in the top of high places, by the way in the places of the paths.

She crieth at the gates, at the entry of the city, at the coming in at the doors.

Unto you, O men, I call; and my voice is to the sons of man.

O ye simple, understand wisdom; and, ye fools, be ye of an understanding heart.

Hear; for I will speak of excellent things; and the opening of my lips shall be right things.

For my mouth shall speak truth; and wickedness is an abomination to my lips.

All the words of my mouth are in righteousness; there is nothing forward or perverse in them.

They are all plain to him that understandeth, and right to them that find knowledge.

Receive my instruction, and not silver; and knowledge rather than choice gold.

For wisdom is better than rubies; and all the things that may be desired are not to be compared to it.

In wisdom dwell with prudence, and find out knowledge of witty inventions.

The fear of the Lord is to hate evil; pride, and arrogancy, and the evil way, and the forward mouth, do I hate.

Counsel is mine, and sound wisdom; I am understanding; I have strength.

The Wise

IT IS good in the Springtime to wander with laughter,
Adventuring gaily down paths all unknown
With no thought for the winter whose storms must come after
The last song is carolled, the last rose is blown;
With no thought of the lonely,
Long hours that come only
To lives whence the summer and sunlight have flown.

But the wise take their springtime as birds do, for mating
And for raising a brood that remembers its nest,
So that after youth's years there will be no lone waiting,
But only the glories that rise in the west
When the sun is descending,
The long day is ending,
And life at its closing is life at its best.

Isn't It So?

Many a low brow is concealed behind a high hat.

In the Elegant East Eighties is one of the most unique bachelor apartments in all the town. There is a private elevator delivering guests to a vestibule of mirrors, and the floor is of glass with running water and goldfish underneath. Door knobs are of crystal and the reception room is in gold leaf, even to the telephones, and the butlers wear gold uniforms. In the master's sleeping room the bed is so arranged mechanically it may be suspended in mid-air and swing to and fro. There is a Chinese room, a Japanese room, a Tahatian room and one done in the modernistic manner. And—pardon the cachination—the owner wears shoes of alligator skin. The profession of ballroom dancing is blooey—blooey. Until two years ago almost every cafe and night club had its couple—"direct from the Lido" or some other spa. Couples were paid as high as $2,500 a week, but today there are plenty of takers but no offers of even $200 a week. Lack of originality had something to do with the debacle. All followed the accustomed groove—a gliding waltz, a tango and one of those whirling numbers where the lady was swung around in the air with a flamboyant flourish.

The agile Castles, with their rythmic nuances, ballooned the ballroom dance into its amazing popularity. Maurice and Walton and several others sustained the interest, but the formula became so standardized if you saw one you saw all. And along came sad-eyed ladies on piano tops yapping their vo-deo-do and left-all-alone miseries. They were at least a change.

Theatrical salaries are nearly always exaggerated—chiefly by producers who slip the buncombe to their mimeograph manipulators. Yet it is reliably reported there are four performers along Broadway this season making in excess of $6,000 a week. They ae mostly the boys and girls with the "it"—the personal following. People will go to see them no matter how punk the play. Among those with feeble plays but "followings" are Joe Cook, the Marx brothers, Katherine Cornell, Mae West and Gertrude Lawrence.

ROBOTS ARE COMING

By Herbert Kaufman

JAPAN clung to tiny sickles and manual coaling long after America had adopted power lawn mowers and automatic fuel carriers.

She couldn't yet afford their economies.

Premature displacement of human labor by cheaper machinery would have thrown thousands out of employment before new occupations could be provided.

They recalled the hideous distress that swept English mill towns when the power loom snatched crusts from multitudes and spread starvation through the Midlands.

Memory of that desperate phase still darkens councils of organized labor, whose leaders now warn the unions to stiffen resistance against the too sudden adoption of time-saving, man-displacing efficiencies, which both dividend rates and enterprise urge upon manufacture.

The world's work could be done at half the expense and in half the hours, if these mechanical servants were more generally employed.

But, the benefits would be offset by an equivalent reduction in national consumption.

Innovation becomes a destructive force when it runs ahead of schedule.

Civilization drives a Car of Juggernaut when its advances are made at the cost of minority distress and human junk-piles.

The fittest method must inevitably survive—Canute can never halt the tides. Robots (automatic craftsmen) will gradually inherit all standardized tasks. The individual tool-kit is doomed to extinction.

But until head jobs can be found for hand users, cold-blooded expediency will protect the old order from the new. We too have read history.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A FASHIONABLE school in New York had a rummage sale the other day. It is an annual event and the people to whom it is a boon and a blessing watch for it eagerly.

A woman with a big family, very little money and no front teeth, was searching among the rich children's clothing. She found a little white fur coat that exactly fitted her child, who was one of seven.

"It's lovely," she said. "How much is it?"

"Oh—" said the kindly teacher, "about $1.50."

The woman paused. "But," she said with a frown, "are they wearing them this season?"

Another woman was debating over a very lacey cap and dress for her little girl. It was a bit soiled.

"You can clean it with gasoline, and it's a very beautiful thing," said the teacher.

"Gasoline? Gasoline?" said the mother, "that's why I am here buying. My husband cleaned something with gasoline while he was smoking a cigaret and we were burned out of house and home two nights ago. If it has to be cleaned with gasoline, keep it!"

A man advertised in a Chicago paper that he will not pay any debts for any member of his entire family. Probably just a worm that turned.

Another one went to court in Fort Wayne, Ind., because his wife made him sleep in the cellar of their home. You'd call that a CROSS complaint, wouldn't you? But wouldn't you be?

We are coming along nicely.

I heard of a woman yesterday who is weaving cable grips in her manufacturing shop because she is short of help. And she has dainty little hands, too. And I saw two men who have started dressmaking shops. And as for the number of men staying at home and caring for the baby while their wives go out and earn the living, my dear, you have no idea.

There is one thing that certainly is going out of fashion, and that is neighborliness. A lady in New York, where no one stays at home, hadn't quite become accustomed to the New York idea, and she kept a bird. She wanted to go away for a short visit and she asked four friends to keep the thing for her. Oh my dear, they were bored with the thought! Even a relative wouldn't do it. But that was hardly a standard to judge by. Anyhow she decided to give the bird away to a child and become a REAL NEW YORKER.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU don't like dissatisfied persons.

Yet if were not for people of this sort the world would be at a standstill.

Chronic kickers are a bore, but it takes a certain amount of dissatisfaction to make for progression.

Perhaps your trouble is that you are too easily satisfied.

Willing to reduce your requirements rather than make the necessary effort to increase your resources.

It is this sort of contentment that has kept many a man down.

It kills initiative, desire and effort.

There must be the goal just ahead to bring out the best.

But advancement receives its death blow when contentment reigns.

Ambition drives men to greatness.

Without ambition all would be drones.

Too many are willing to go the easiest way and drag their families along with them.
